

Love and humility.

30th September 2007

My children, you are in my thoughts and minds always and you are always loved by your heavenly family. I thank the faithful remnant who show their thoughts and love for all by their prayers and actions. Teach your brothers and sisters of the need to come ever closer to the protection and promise to be found in the Most Sacred Heart of my adored son, Jesus, through their prayers and actions. I often ask you to pray individually and now I remind you of the great benefit of praying together as a family. Your unified prayers storm heaven with your selfless intentions and as a group you become close and united in faith and support. No one person is meant to feel isolated or alone in their journey although many do because they have not seen the support which is about them. Proclaim the truth and support and nourish those who accept the truth. Your words say much but your actions, in support of those words, show so much more than mere words can ever portray. If you are willing to be Christ's disciples then live a life according to His command and example. Serve and remain humble and obedient to God's Holy Will. Remove sin from your soul and celebrate the redemption given by the sacrifice of The Saviour. Allow Him to live within you and you will truly live within Him. The message of mercy and compassion and fortitude is more pertinent today than at any other time. Many will seek to hide in caves and under the ground when the fire and the winds and the floods come. They will run into the fields when the earth shakes in order to find protection. Protection is found not in the material structures you build or in hiding away and hoping the maelstrom will pass over you. Protection is found when you wrap your self in the mantle offered through the sacraments and through faith in your salvation. Fear passé from those who don the protective armour of hope and righteousness and piety. Death is a consequence of all life but eternal life is a consequence of how you prepare to meet your mortal demise.

27th June 2007

Pray, my children that my dear consecrated sons may grow in humility and obedience and in service to all. Many reject the truth which has been revealed to them and many try to be popular by giving in to compromises and altering their known convictions for the benefit of convenience alone. Some reject the truth of the true presence of my adored son, Jesus, in the transformed bread and wine and therefore in the Tabernacle. This is dangerous for not only does their action offend God it also is an affront to their promises of obedience and to the actual sacrifice of The Christ. It is easy to be guided from the path when you allow Satan to plant doubts and little deceptions into your mind. Pray for protection and for greater understanding to be given to all of my children so they may maintain their faith and live that faith. You are all called to serve in different ways but all are asked to serve for the same purpose. The conversion and salvation of your brothers and sisters is the great service you are asked to perform and for the love of our Eternal Father I ask you to persevere and be faithful. You will have moments of trial and turmoil but it is the strength of your faith and hope which will allow you to endure. Remain faithful and obedient at all times and keep peace within you and about you. Your prayers do so much to mitigate the pain which could be suffered by my children and they are heard and answered in so many different ways. The world has lost much of the faith it once held because of the influence of materialism and commercial desires. Do not be misled into believing that all laws and proposals are made for the benefit of all. Be aware of those who say they serve all but by their actions show they benefit only a few and disregard the welfare of many. Be open and vocal supporters of the truth and word of God and seek to see it applied to every situation and for the benefit of all.

28th June 2007

Invite our Eternal Father to come back into your life and you will never feel alone again. Spend time each day with Him through your prayers and feel the beauty and warmth of His presence. Let His will guide you to greater and deeper service for Him and for your brothers and sisters. Come to understand how He has always been with you and how His love is available for all. Let that love become the moving force in your life and humbly, and gratefully, express that love to all. By your examples of mercy and compassion you will be known as His faithful remnant. The remnant can grow through your service to become the majority and, with grace, faith and hope and salvation will come to all. Almighty God became man through my adored son, Jesus, in order to show His love and desire for your salvation to your watching eyes. Many ask Him to show Himself so that they can believe and forget that He did and still they doubt. It is not in seeing God that you will find faith but in believing in His mercy and forgiveness and by being obedient to His commands. His commandments do not tie you down as many would lead you to believe. They free you from the bindings of sin and regret and set out the way to joyful and peaceful life. They contain all the simple wisdom you need to never cause offence to God or man and do lead you to humility and holiness. Too many of my children disregard the commandments or obey only when it suits their convenience. You can not deny or lessen one without destroying all of them. That destruction will lead to your ruin for a society with out rule and respect can not long survive. Find your peace with God now while you have time. Do not wait until the earth shakes, the waters surge, the winds howl and the fires fall all around for then it will be too late for so many and my heart will weep for the loss of their souls and for their disregard of the promise of eternal joy made through my son's sacrifice.

29th June 2007

It is easier to serve with a clear mind and soul than when you are distracted by the clouds of the past. I ask all of my children to reach into their soul and resolve the pain of past conflict and errors. When you come to my adored son, Jesus, and confess your sin he unbinds you from the burden of those transgressions. They are forgiven but often you will not forgive yourself. Many times others about you will not forgive as they are called to. You may not forgive others as you must. The past is gone and forgiven so do not waste your precious time by reliving that time. Learn from it and resolve to never repeat the circumstance of that occurrence and grow from it. Grow in wisdom and understanding and let the graces which come to you through a good, complete confession and properly performed penance become abundantly manifest through your actions and service. Never cease to sing out the praise you should give for our Eternal Father's love and mercy. Find peace within when you talk with Him and ask for direction for your life. He gives you the gift of life and shows compassion in every day to all of His children. Many do not see the compassion which is shown because they do not look at the possibilities which could be if it were not for His merciful mitigation as a result of your prayers. When you see danger or are suffer for your transgressions and offences. He frees the chains which burden your soul and affect your life and asks that you merely let others know the way to their emancipation from sin.

27th September 2007

The blessings of our Eternal Father come upon those who accept the truth and forgiveness given through my adored son, Jesus. My children your world must be simplified and purified and much of what must be done can be achieved by the faithful remnant through their prayers and actions. It is time to re embrace the values which have always been constant but which have been pushed aside by so many for the sake of convenience and compromise. You live in a created world of perceived equality but somewhere you have confused the general order of creation. You have denied the importance of God and His commandments and removed the safeguards which have given equal rights and respect to all of His children. You have allowed the perversion of the family unit, as shown through our Holy family, in order to follow the abominations which you, in your selfishness, have chosen. You have destroyed your brothers and sisters by the millions because of your inability to obey Gods commandments and to show respect for yourself and your gift of purity. You seek to avoid conception by artificial means when there has always been one certain way to not conceive and it has not harmed your physical body in any way. My children you have destroyed tens of million of your family by your lust for power and possessions. Self control is a gift while wanton lust is an illusion created by satan's empty promises. Greed is still your weakness, my children, for it comes to you in so many forms. The desire to have that which is not yours is a great sin which blinds you so completely. The temptations which satan sends to you are hard to resist for those who have faith and knowledge and impossible for those who have turned their back on God. Repair your souls through the willing confession of your sin and through the reparations which you offer. You will gain courage through the Holy Spirit when you are freed from your weight of sin and the discernment which is given to you will help you avoid the future temptation which will come to you. Proclaim the truth to all who can listen and do not fear persecution for the sake of Christ's kingdom. Do for Him as much as He has done for you through your faithful service and undying compassion and love to all.

29th September 2007

Be assured that you are never alone in your journey to join our look upon all with gentle love and charity and He asks you to simply be humble and obedient to the commands of our eternal Father. Let His name be within your heart and let the sound of his name and His actions resonate from your lips. He is Lord and saviour to all and nothing which man can say will ever change that truth. Let your trust rest securely in the hands of Christ for He is the one who will never abuse your trust and will allow your hope to live. Be prepared for that which is to come is what he asks of you. If a flood were to come to you then you would move out of the way and if a fire descended you would do all to avoid it and to defend those you love. You would brace yourself against the howling storm and find safe ground when the earth trembled. Act in the same way in the face of the coming time when all will see their true self and stand in judgement. The time when this will happen is not important and only The Father knows the appointed hour but you know that it will happen so use the time of grace well. Barricade and defend your soul as you would your home for the soul must be preserved and saved as it is the only possession of yours which is eternal.

25th September 2007

Accept the words of my adored son, Jesus, and receive, from the Holy Spirit, the knowledge and courage to proclaim and live those words and the truth contained within. Pray for guidance through and discernment about all which happens and that which you see and hear and read. You have been told that the good vine will bear nothing but good fruit and that is the way of all which our eternal Father gives. He gives to you as a result of His pure love for all. He gives to each of His children, equally, without prejudice or favour and continues to do so even when you reject and deny Him. Give the love that He has given and the fruit of that love will be plentiful and full. The time for you to proclaim His message is now for the fruit must be shared when it is fresh. Remain focused on that which He show you and speak as He has directed you. Let the words of God be the sound which comes from your lips. It is difficult to bear the opposition which comes to you from those who fear the changes to their life that acceptance of the truth entails. Pray before the tabernacle for The Christ truly waits there for you. Those who do so remain close to Him and those who do not are rejecting Him and His presence. Your faith and hope allows you to be with Him so remain firm in your belief and trust in His promises. His mercy and forgiveness is given to all who ask for it with faith in His compassion and charity. Do not fear His punishment because He has borne the punishment which you should asked to pray for some circumstance then pray and offer the intention that your prayers be directed to God's will. Your prayers lessen much of what could be if it were not for sincere prayer. Man does great harm to his fellow man and our Father intervenes as He can and not in a direct way but with compassion. He can not eradicate the evil which is in the hearts of some for satan does rule the earth as foretold by The Christ, but you decide how much power he has and you can remove his influence through service and selflessness and prayer. Read Isaiah 43 : 18 and Jeremiah 29 10 : 14

Jesus, through the power of the Holy Spirit, guide me to go back into my memory as I sleep. I ask you to heal every hurt that has ever been done to me. I ask you to heal every hurt that I have ever caused to another person. For all the relationships that have been damaged in my whole life that I am not aware of, I ask to heal those relationships. Lord, if there is anything that I need to do or. if I need to go to a person because they are still suffering from my hand, bring to my awareness that person. I choose to forgive, and I ask to be forgiven. Remove whatever bitterness may be in my heart, Lord, and fill the empty spaces with your love. Thank You Jesus, Amen.

30th June 2007

You must trust, now, and believe in our Eternal Father's love for all of you, now. Time moves by so quickly and many have not yet prepared themselves for the great cleansing which is to come. Look about you and truthfully say that times are not changing or that oppression and darkness are not trying to cover everything. Godless men rule your thoughts and your actions. They cause you to fear and to seek compromise. Never betray your soul by giving in to their plans. The truth you must follow is the unchanging truth of God's commandments as given to all and as lived by my adored son, Jesus. His example of obedience and humility is the cloak you must wear if you are to stand firm against the tide of abomination and terror which tries to sweep all from their steady rock. Prepare for the battle to come by arming your self with the graces which are given to the faithful remnant through their obedience and service. Keep your protection about you through prayer and the frequent reception of The Sacraments and through your special items which have been blessed by my dear consecrated sons. Do not fall prey to the sneers and derision thrown at you by those who do not believe but show them, by your example, how to believe and have hope. Pray for those who are misguided and lost and ask for help to guide them to conversion and salvation. It is always through your example that you will have the greatest victories for God and his will. I again ask you to pray, pray, pray so that the evil which waits to unfold may be lessened and also that the lessening be seen as a sign of God's compassion and mercy. Listen to the words I have been given for you and live the message of peace and love and forgiveness. Remain firm in your hope and you will find the reward of eternal joy and happiness.

My children, I ask you to continue to trust and obey the simple commandments of our Eternal Father. This will help you remain firm in the days of trial and torment which are to come. Do not fear or despair but remain confident that God's mercy and majesty will soon be seen by all. Serve His will so that all may come to accept His love and forgiveness before that time because it will be too late to do so after the event begins. His mercy pours upon all at the moment as He makes His desire for peace and compassion evident in His gentle ways and signs. Do not fail to give Him thanks and praise for every instance of divine intervention and grace which you are able to perceive. Everything come from Him and through Him and although His children often interfere with and pervert His plan, He will turn all which seems bad to His purpose and make good from evil. He is concerned with the state of your soul for that is your eternal possession and the way through which you find joy in His presence. The soul which is sullied and stained and not cleansed will be lost in the absence of a desire to find forgiveness and to perform penance. Set yourself on the path to salvation through your humble action of a simple and honest admission of your sins and failings. Allow yourself to receive the abundant grace of the forgiven and seek to remain in that state of grace at all times. The path is difficult and you will stumble from time to time but forgiveness is still the promise for all who fall and seek to return to Our Father's embrace and protection. My adored son, Jesus, showed you the way to be with Him when you come to paradise. Receive Him often as He is presented to you in real form at the celebration of His sacrifice. Be aware that evil children seek to remove Him from the Mass and are ready to set the bride against itself in their desire for greedy, selfish power. They serve satan and satan alone by their actions and they hide even now within the church and the places of trust which they occupy. Many have failed in their vows and profession of faith and soon they will be for souls. In truth the battle has raged throughout the ages but the intensity is increasing each day. So many of my children have rejected the forgiveness which has been offered by my adored son Jesus and have ventured into the darkness of satan's traps. You hurt others when you hurt yourself through your exercise of your freewill. I implore those who have distanced themselves from God and His truth to willingly embrace Him while the time remains. Events occur quickly and without warning and it is too easy to be caught sleeping. Those of you who have the truth and knowledge of that truth and still resist can not have the defence that you were unaware of what will befall you. Our Eternal Father will give new life and rebirth to the world when He cleanses it but birth is not without pain and difficulty. Pray that you have the courage to remain firm and obedient in your decision to live and proclaim the light of Christ. I ask you to let go of the ways which remove you from God's mercy and scrape away the layers of self which shield you from the graces to be obtained through humility and selfless service to God. The journey is not an easy one but the rewards outweigh the small sacrifices you are called to make. Give praise and thanks giving for the compassion of God that He lets you have time in which to prepare and to help so many to find salvation and receive His mercy. It is in the quiet that he will call to you but the turmoil will be a warning. Nations will oppose each other soon and all will say they act in the name of God. God does not make bitterness or greed or a desire for national pride. God does not seek for His children to make enemies of each other and to slaughter them self. The actions which you perform to the least of your brothers and sisters, you also do, to The Christ and you will be asked to make account of such. Be prepared for that time by cleansing your soul now through confession and penance and the true desire to know and remain close to your saviour and all which He offers to everyone.

23rd September 2007

I love you, my children, with a mother's love and I want only that which is best for all of you. I ask you to let go of your doubts and fears and place your burdens at the foot of the cross of salvation. My adored son, Jesus, suffered so that you may have freedom for guilt and sin and regret. He broke the chains which held you to the fate for all who live in sin and who deny God's love and mercy. It is through His sacrifice that all are able to find forgiveness and redemption. He is your constant ally against satan and the temptations which are shown to you. His truth is truth. It is mercy and compassion. His eyes and those who have accepted the forgiveness and truth of my adored so, Jesus, are the body of His bride. Be faithful to the promises and acceptance you have offered and remain obedient to the commandments of life. Reject the temptation of satan and live a life centred on the Christ and service to God's will. Let your service be offered to all who come across your path and forgive all who reject and persecute you. Stay close to the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus through your frequent reception of the Sacraments and leave your heart and mind available always to speak with Him. This time of preparation can not last for ever and sadly no amount of time will be enough for many. Be prepared for the battle to come and let the words of Holy Scripture be the armour which will help protect you in moments of doubt and weakness. Seek simplicity over abundance and comfort and humility over self. Those who sacrifice of their time and love and possessions are close to the salvation they wish for others. Reach out with love and charity and compassion and be an example of the love of Jesus and show peace and understanding and tolerance to all. Read Baruch 4 25 - 35

My children, forgiveness is waiting in front of you but you have to consciously accept the offered gift. Turn away from a life of waste and selfish indulgence and reject the illusions which satan creates to keep you separated from my adored son, Jesus. Remain strong with your commitment and know that our Eternal Father's strength is with all who willingly trust and believe in His mercy and will. Step out with faith in your heart and show your faith to all whom you meet. The path you travel when you proclaim the wonderful glory of God's love and forgiveness is the path to an eternity of joy. Do not reject your inheritance through your wilful rejection of obedience and service. Pray for understanding and for direction to come through that understanding. Be enfolded in the mantle of protection given by your consecration to my Immaculate Heart and affirm your trust in the Divine Mercy of the Christ. Lead many to understand that the depth and scope of His compassion extends to all of His brothers and sisters. Remain awake and prepared through your confession which cleanses your soul and the reception of Jesus which nourishes and strengthens you. Live your life in imitation of the service and humility of the Saviour and do all for love of Jesus and your brothers and sisters.

22nd September 2007

My children, many times I have warned you to prepare for the battle exposed for who they are and for what they truly serve. Pray that they may convert and renew their service. Pray especially for my consecrated sons who seek to pervert the truth and affect those they teach. Resist the changes which they try and force and resist and deny the confusion and unrest which they try to impress upon all. Be aware always that satan waits to lure you away from grace and salvation. Pray for strength and for the courage to resist all which is not from God or for God and His glory.

2nd July 2007

All of my children must come to know and accept God's great love and mercy in the time they have left. Turn to Him each day through your prayers and with your service in the name of His Holy love. Respond to His call and to the truth and light of my adored son, Jesus. His light shines through the faithful remnant because they have chosen to be forgiven through His Divine Mercy and compassion and I ask you to all become burning beacons of His truth. Pray and gain protection from the noise of satan and his temptations. Seek to find peace and quiet in which to pray and contemplate. It is most necessary to gain that peace so that you are not distracted or hindered when you speak with our Eternal Father. Through prayer and your devotions you will gain greater peace and understanding for the storms and trials which come to those who oppose satan and his forces. The greater suffering and despair belongs to those who deny God and try to diminish His importance in the lives of His children so offer your trials for their conversion and salvation. Let your actions always be performed out of love for others as you have been shown by the actions of The Christ.

3rd July 2007

Never let fear or apprehension divert you from the service that you give our Eternal Father for the salvation of all your brothers and sisters. Find protection and strength within the shelter of my Immaculate heart and the Most Sacred Heart of my adored son, Jesus. When you enter into the love of our hearts you will find pure and unreserved love and mercy, peace and compassion, understanding and hope. Pray to find courage to accept the truth of the words of Christ and to live your life according to His word and example. Courage is given to you through the Holy Spirit's gifts and it is needed by you to be able to withstand the assaults of satan and his force of evil disciples. Courage is strengthened through your prayers for understanding and complete acceptance. It is shown through your humility and selfless actions and through your trust in God's Holy will and by obedience to His commands. Be at peace in all which happens to you and about you. I ask you to seek only to further the kingdom of God through your service and do not expect any reward for your self but give all for the love of our living God. Your redemptive work is offered for the salvation of all and you must persevere in the time left to help guide many back to the true path to eternal joy.

4th July 2007

I ask my children to return to our loving, merciful God and accept the love He gives to all of you. Accept Him and forgo all of the distractions which keep you separated from Him. Give your entire service to Him and to His will for all and let your life become one of selflessness and humility and holiness. Accept His mercy and love now while the grace of times exists. Many will fail to return to Him and His heart cries for those who will continue to reject His call and not listen to His messages and notice His signs of intervention. You are called to be strong in your faith and hope through all of the events which may cause those of weak faith to despair and falter. You will need to trust and believe through the trials and tests. Listen to the words of truth from my adored son, Jesus, and always imitate Him in every aspect of your life. He is the good shepherd who gathers His flock, nourishes them and protects them. Pray that you find understanding of the full glory of His promise of forgiveness and mercy and trust in that promise. Spend time with Him each day in prayer and never forget He is truly waiting for you in the Tabernacle. Find a time of solitude and peace in which to pray and listen to His words for you. He walks with you each day as do I and we will never leave your side because of our love and desire to guide you to eternal joy and happiness. Give thanks and praise for the promises which await your acceptance and for the graces which do flow upon the entire faithful remnant. Seek peace and redemption for your soul through your simple act of asking forgiveness in the Sacrament of reconciliation and through your sincere penance.

6th July 2007

All of my children lack God's perfection so do not be dismayed or distracted by your shortcomings. Find peace in the forgiveness offered to you every time you ask for it through your admission of your failings. Be sincere in your confessions and know that the forgiveness which you receive does truly cleanse you and redeem you. If you willingly make a decision to return to our Eternal Father then you will be given grace to help you to maintain your resolve.

selfless and compassionate and merciful and examples of service through the simple little way. Grow in appreciation of all he has given and renew the bridges to him which you had pulled down by your rejection and denial of His presence. Listen and live the messages which I give to you through the grace of the Eternal Father and use this shortening time of grace wisely. Find peace in the comfort of his embrace and always trust in the forgiveness of My Adored Son, Jesus. He is the way and the truth which will lead you to The Eternal Father and eternal joy in his presence.

18th September 2007

Every time you spend quiet and uninterrupted time in prayer with my adored son, Jesus, you will become filled with His love and peace. He has promised that, to all who turn to Him and accept His mercy, truth and forgiveness for their sin. Satan attacks from all direction in an attempt to steal your peace and tempt you to sin again but you have a protection when you pray and receive the graces which come through your frequent reception of the Sacraments. Keep your prayers simple and sincere and ask me to intercede for you to our Eternal Father. When you hold the beads which help you to pray, remember, your pray to Our Father through His Son and with the influence of The Holy Spirit working within you. The Rosary is powerful because you ask not only for me to intercede but also for our Father to listen to the petitions you make and present through me. Meditate upon the life and passion and resurrection of Jesus as you pray and you will come to a deeper and more personal understanding of his merciful love for all of His brothers and sisters. You are called to pray for each other and to live a life of holiness. To accept the salvation which is offered to you is to become a vessel of holiness but, as in every endeavour, you must review and renew your commitment often. Examine your conscience honestly and with humility and confess all of your shortcomings and you will grow to deep holiness. Through your service you show your faith and trust and through your prayers you show your hope in the glorious compassion of almighty God.

19th September 2007

God's mercy is poured upon all of His children and still they reject him and deny His presence in their life. I ask you to be ceaseless in your prayers for those who live far from salvation. Through your prayers and actions you can help guide them from the wilderness to the path of redemption. Gather as a family and give thanks and praise for the blessing which you receive. You are children of God right or just. There is a great sin of consensus today which causes much pain and despair on the earth and in heaven and that is your desire to kill without thought and through rationalised and flawed reasoning. Life is sacred and ordained by God and any who raise their hand against His created life raise their hand against their Father and His love. Stop the rivers of blood which flow from the sacrifice of innocents in the name of convenience and comfort. All abortion is murder and all can be avoided by obedience to God's commands and by teaching those values. Those who sin and err and are endowed with God's gift of life regardless must not compound their sin but accept and trust. Support those who have gone astray and forgive and show compassion and you will also help so much towards stopping this horror which causes so much darkness at this time. Pray and fill your hearts with mercy and charity for all and most especially for those who deliberately sin and most need your support and help.

17th September 2007

My children, you live in a time where there can be so much peace and progress because of the way you have harnessed the gifts which our eternal Father has given to you. His gifts are abused and misused by so many and turned into abominations. Pray that the world rejects the dangers which become greater every day by the need of so many nations to show power and satisfy their greed which is borne both of pride and arrogance. Reject those who say they act in Almighty God's name but do so with contempt for God's children and with hatred and vengeance and violence as their tools. I thank you for your sincere prayers and faith in the face of such terror and anger. Your faith can be rewarded by hope and peace if you will open your hearts to the love of God. Believe in Almighty God's great love for you. Give all your burdens and trials to him and ask for his help to bear your suffering. Entrust your hearts to the guidance I offer and I will lead you to the Father, through the Son and with the inspiration of The Holy Spirit. Remove the fog with which blinds to His truth and then you will see and hear God. Cleanse your soul through the admission of your sin and live your life in accordance with His truth as shown through His words and actions. Grow in humility and holiness as you serve in the cause of His holy love. Proclaim to all the endless love and mercy which is given to them through the mercy of God. Show to them the example of that mercy which he showed for all through his incarnation, birth and death and resurrection. Be thankful for all you continue to receive from Him. Be

Pray for strength to resist the temptation to return to the past and also to be courageous in your defence and promotion of the truth of my adored son, Jesus. Do not allow Satan to infiltrate your thoughts with feelings of avarice and pride and do not seek to build earthly possessions at the risk of losing your eternal inheritance. Live a life of humility and service and strive to bring the lost sheep of your family to conversion and salvation. Offer the trials and sufferings you may have to further your desire for the rescue of all of God's children who are drowning in the sea of inequity and apathy which they produce when they reject God and His plan and commandments. Those who seek only to increase their own worth and their own ego and their own will are facing an eternity of despair and separation from the love and protection of their Father in heaven. Be prepared for the times which are around you are ones which contained hidden danger and misery. With God as the central point of your life your soul will survive all which comes to upon you. Do not fear but retain your faith and determination always. My children find it hard to remain faithful because the example of the Christ is not able to be physically seen by them as it was by His first disciples. They knew Him and spoke with Him. They ate with Him and laughed and cried with Him. They saw him die and they witnessed His resurrection and ascension to the Father. They received the Holy Spirit and the commission to be witnesses to the truth of salvation given to all of God's children. They lived and died faithful to their holy mission. You still have their witness to the truth in the Gospels and the truth is still the same as it was for them. Live that truth and continue to be witnesses of that truth and light and great love.

Selflessness and compassion, charity and humility and obedience are the solid stepping stones on the path to eternal happiness. Look not at what you do to further our Eternal Father's kingdom but look to how you perform your service. I ask you to consider what benefit is there for a person with a thousand bars of gold to give one to ease pain and suffering when they are not willing to feel that same suffering. Many have little and yet they give everything they have to help another who is in need. If you feed a hungry mouth you perform an act which pleases our Father but let the one who hungers become a member of your family if you wish to find lasting joy. Feed them with food but the greater nourishment they will receive will be the spiritual food of love and mercy and understanding. Never fail to reach out with all which you are and always act in the image of my adored son, Jesus. Let your desire to see salvation for all be your guide as you journey the path of light. The truth of the Gospels is your burning beacon and I am your guiding star. Follow me on your course for I will always lead you to the safety and shelter of The Most Sacred Heart of The Christ. Do not loose heart when events seem to suppress and thwart your service. The way you learn to handle small trials will reveal to you the patience and wisdom through which you can withstand the great tests and trials. Pray in all situations and wisdom will come to you. Prayer and trust in the love and forgiveness of Almighty God are the tools which allow you to persevere and persist and to bring about the triumph of my Immaculate Heart.

Thank you for your invitation to be with you this evening. I can not tell my children often enough about the need to be prepared for the time when you will stand in judgement before our Eternal Father. You will be called to give an account of what you did to further the salvation of your brothers and sisters. Our Father will not be concerned with the assets you have acquired if you have not used them in the selfless service for others. He will weigh what you have said and what you have truly done. Your actions and imitation of my adored son, Jesus will be the scale by which you are judged. Your willingness to let go of the past and live a new life with The Christ as your guiding light will count greatly to your eternal happiness. I ask you to give your self to Him completely and do not allow reservations to remain. You have been shown the way to live a life which will promote peace and love and universal brotherhood. The holy scriptures are the recipe book which contains all of the ingredients which you need to find holiness and direction. Prayer is your way of communication through which you will hear the will of God. Confession and penance is your means to purify your soul and remove distraction and the barriers which separate you from the graces of The Father and The Son and the Holy Spirit. You are given everything which you require so spend time giving thanksgiving for the goodness which is given. Be obedient to the commands which were given to be followed by all of God's children and stand as a warning for all. When you venture from the simple rules you have been shown then you are in grave danger and you risk everything which has led you to the path of salvation and reward. Seek to understand the reason for your trials and offer your burdens gladly. Look at the signs you are given and the messages which come to you from our Father and always be ready for the knock which comes and understanding of the will of Almighty God through the way in which you read and learn the lessons of Holy Scriptures. Be an imitation of the Christ is the actions which you perform for the salvation of your brothers and sisters. Do not be misled by the illusions of satan. You will not find redemption in material goods or the false doctrines which seek to sway you from the revealed truth as shown through the bride. Trust and have hope always in God's providence and give praise for all which He gives and will continue to those who serve in humility and obedience. Especially do not compromise the truth for the sake of convenience and ease. You will help protect the souls of those who are wandering in the darkness through your proclamation of the truth and the light which that truth spreads.

16th September 2007

I ask you, my children, to remain steadfast and faithful to your beliefs. Remain immersed in humility and service for Almighty God our Eternal Father and be examples of the compassion and mercy which was shown to you by my adored son, Jesus. Do not be led astray by empty promises and false religions which offer you so much comfort and abundance for your physical life and no salvation for your eternal life. Beware the evil which is uttered in the name of God for all which is of God the Father is good and not harmful to any of His beloved children. If a man says he must follow god and yet cause harm to God's creation then he truly follows the words which spring from the mouth of satan. Beware those who profess a love of The Christ and then use their hypocrisy to justify their attacks and persecutions. You are called to witnesses to hope and to love, not violence and enforced assimilation. Maintain Jesus as the centre of your faith. Live His example and speak His words and you will lead many to return to the redemption which he has assured for those who convert and repent. Use your love of Him to strengthen you in the times of battle and to comfort you in your times of weakness and despair. Although you may not feel His presence, find courage to remain assured that He is with your at all times. Let your actions be the physical example of your thoughts and words and let all be guided by His truth and light. If you wish to dry His tears and mine, then I ask your to pray with sincerity and selflessness. Treat all as you would ask to be treated and protect all as you would ask for protection. Do not accept abominations and corruptions of God's order as being inevitable and correct by consensus. If every person agreed to follow a principle that denied God's revealed truth that would not make their decision words you are given. Our Eternal Father does not show his complete majesty but works through subtle and gentle ways for that is His way. His desire is for you to return from love and through the direction you are given to embrace that love. Use your time to come to a greater understanding of his compassion through your prayers and through your service. The gift of eternal life which He has given to those who will accept is His greatest gift. It was borne to you through Him when He became man and suffered so that you may live with and through Him. Receive Him often through His presence in the most blessed Eucharist and be sincere in your desire to truly be a part of Him as he is a part of you. Prepare well to receive Him through your admission of sin and the cleansing of your offences. Many of my children live a life in which they deny or reject His mercy and yet turn to Him when all the deceptions and illusions are wiped away. Imagine how wonderful it would be to accept Him in the times of plenty so that His strength would sustain you and prepare you for the times of trial. When you distance yourself from Him he does not move away as you may think. He is as constant as your shadow and no matter how much you move aside he is still with you, waiting, reaching out and embracing. His promise is to be with all, until the end of time itself and he will return to establish his kingdom forever on the earth. Prepare for that time and do not wait until the times of darkness and fire to descend. If you wait until the earth groans and shakes under the burden of unrepented sin then the time may pass you by. Convert your life and repent now so that through your example many more will find their way home.

15th September 2007

Through God's endless mercy you are saved regardless of the offence your sin has caused when you ask forgiveness through my adored son Jesus, The Christ. His salvation is available as the remedy for the pain and slavery of your sin. Many continue to reject and even deny His truth and through your service you can bring them to the realisation of His love. You must spend time with Him, in prayer, or you will not be prepared to withstand the trials which come to distract you. Be firm in your commitment for the time will come when your courage and resolve will be tested. Do not falter but turn to the protection offered within the Most Sacred Heart of The Christ. You are asked to reach out but more than that you are also asked to remain as a part of the journey with those you seek to guide. Through your willingly offered love and care you will become a servant of holy love to all who are in need. Increase your knowledge to your door. Do not loose your right by your poor exercise of your freewill and discernment. Learn the teachings of the Scriptures and you will be clothed with armour which satan can not easily penetrate. Read and learn from the Gospel of Luke 17 20 - 34

I ask you to accept, completely, the merciful forgiveness and love of our Eternal Father as shown to you through my adored son, Jesus. Come to His embrace and find everlasting joy and peace. Pray that you may have wisdom come to you through The Holy Spirit and use that knowledge wisely and for the salvation of all. The service you give is difficult to perform but your willingness and perseverance can help to convert so many of your wayward brothers and sisters. Strive to find what you really want to have happen in your life. Accept that which is given and do not seek to become enmeshed in material concerns which can do nothing to further God's kingdom. The time is coming when wealth and possession will count for nothing for all will be shown to be equal in the eyes of our Father. Treat everyone you come across with gentle love and compassion and treat all without regard to their worldly worth or their reputation or fame. Our Father's love for His children is without bias and so also should yours be. Each has a part to play in the redemptive work to be performed and I ask you to always let the words I have given to all, and which come from our Father, to be heard. Proclaim, also, the words of truth of The Christ and the need for obedience to the Holy commandments of God. Be humble and remain faithful to your service and to our God's will and plan for you and for all.

13th July 2007

I ask all of my children to trust in the mercy of God and not in the comfort of worldliness. You have been told many times that the signs of God will cause confusion amongst many. Some will not see them for what they are and others will know their importance and try to dismiss them either from fear or to cause confusion. Beware the people of science who see science as their god and only promote the causes which give them the most reward. They are guided by the need to possess rather than by the desire to use their gifts as our Eternal Father has planned for them to do. Do not let deception thrive in your mind for long for then the lies which satan promotes will become facts to the unwary. Look at each person who puts forward any idea or concept or proposal and discern who it is that they truly serve. Take care of the creation which you are a part of but do not live in fear of the changes it experiences. It is a living and active creation as it must be for your ability to live within and as a part of it. Your world replenishes itself in so many ways and gives you the needs for your life. Thank Almighty God for His great gift which allows you to grow and be nourished for all comes about through His loving providence. Your greatest act of thankfulness is your willingness to serve God in the work of holy love which He calls all to perform. Tell everyone of His mercy and love and forgiveness. Show your brothers and sisters how to be and example of the light and truth as shown by my adored son, Jesus. Let His word be your strength and comfort, your shield and your sword. Be prepared to fight with love rather than anger, strike with compassion rather than force. Wear humility as your cloak and be obedient to God's commandments. Pray each day for the ability to overcome temptations and the occasions of sin which are presented to you by the deceiver and his agents of disruption. Admit when you fail and fall from a state of grace and find forgiveness through your actions of reparation. Do not be afraid to come before God now for a time will come when you will have no choice in that matter. Repair the damage now and live a life which will lead to eternal joy and happiness with our Father.

15th July 2007

Many times I call you to be small and humble and again I remind you of the importance of such conduct. Only by growing in humility can you completely serve with selflessness and pure love. When the welfare of everyone is greater than yours, then, you are able to give without any thoughts of reward or gratitude. Let your service to your brothers and sisters be offered with compassion and allow the will of God to be your only purpose. In His service you will find peace and fulfilment and you will aid in the conversion and salvation of many. In these times you must begin to trust in God's love and believe in His mercy or you will become blinded by the acts of evil which appear to surround you and overshadow the goodness which is within the world. Let my adored son, Jesus, guide you to the path of peace and never let go of His hand. He will comfort you and He will redeem your soul. His love for you is known and it is constant. With His example firmly planted in your heart then you also can become constant and consistent in your work of holy love. Never become discouraged by the trials and opposition which comes to you and do not loose your way in the myriad of suggestions which are thrown at you. Let the Sacred heart of The Christ be your shelter and allow the love contained within to be your source of charity and love. Pray for chapter and verse in your mind, my children.

13th September 2007

Everything which you need to live life as an example of my adored son, Jesus, is shown to you and given to you, freely, and from love. It is your choice to either accept or reject the gifts you are given. It is your choice to reject the temptation of satan and his wickedness. It is your choice to deny the momentary moment of material wealth in favour of eternal riches. You decide what is to happen to yourself and to your soul but your control finishes when God calls you to be judged. You can not stand before His seat of judgement and say you did not know your time would come or that you had intended to change your life. Those who intend to change because they realise the truth must do so for to delay is to deny their knowledge. Your good intentions will not pave a path to salvation unless they are realised by your admission of fault and offence and your performance of your reparation for that sin. When you start to live your intentions then you will be purified and given grace enough to help you to withstand the urges to reverse your decision. You will have the chance to serve and learn and to grow in holiness and humility. The gate of heaven is small and only the small will pass so I ask you to let go of pride and arrogance and give praise to god for the gifts he has given to you which allow you to do works which are worthy of praise. Do not seek recognition for yourself for the actions you perform but serve out of purity and love. My children again I tell you there is no reason for those with faith and hope to have fear of what is to be. Pray for protection and it will be given. Imagine how harsh could events of disaster be if it were not for prayers of mitigation and mercy. Our Father shows his love in every day through His providence and merciful interventions which largely go unnoticed and with out gratitude. Look to the moments of His mercy and be thankful. Give thanks for the fire which dies and the flood which turns and for the moments of delay which cause you to miss a moment of peril. Take a moment of uninterrupted, quiet time to pray and give thanks for the compassion which is shown to you and to your brothers and sisters. Help me to guide all back to God and to His embrace.

14th September 2007

Allow yourself to feel the presence of my adored son, Jesus, when you take quiet, still time to talk with Him. Respond to His love now and do not waste the time of mercy you have been given. Decide what it will take for you to look to the signs and to pay attention to the a revelation to all of God made flesh. You must believe that God came to earth to repair your bond with Himself. His mercy is shown through the forgiveness He gives to all who sincerely ask for that freedom to be given. When you sin you again open the rift which was caused by Adam and create distance between your self and God. With trust and hope in His grace you can remove sin and the attempts of satan to again lure you to his deceptive ways. Be prepared to always answer the call which will be made to all. Don't ever be so busy as to find reasons to not pray or give thanksgiving and praise for the providence you have been shown. In humility and obedience let all your actions be examples of god's love and care. Help all who ask for help and do not be dissuaded from the work of holy love you are asked to perform.

12th September 2007

The winds of change blow but those who hide from the truth can not see the signs. Many hide their face and close their eyes and hope that all will go away and that their lives can continue as they have. If you have fear of the present and of the future then there is only one way to quell that fear which burns inside of you. Your fear stems from the knowledge of your sin and of your times that you have rejected the mercy offered by my adored son, Jesus. If you have fear it is because you recognise the truth but have not accepted it as a result of your pride or selfishness. Truth is unchanging as is the mercy which is still offered to you while you have time to accept it. Open your heart and allow the truth of the Christ to fill the emptiness within and with the truth comes strength and courage. Courage is needed to admit your faults and you are called to admit them openly so that your sincerity is shown to God and to yourself. Your sins are your concern to be dealt with by you and the example you are asked to show is not a revelation of your depth of sin to all but the action of truly asking to be forgiven. Show your brothers and sisters by your action; guide them with your love, reveal to them the glory of God's abundance and help them find salvation. Be thankful for the grace of time and for the prayers which help mitigate so much. Our Father hears your pleas and words of love and He again asks that all of His children return to His embrace. Pray and keep peace about you at this time. Prepare and be ready for the battle which you are called to fight. Pray that my sorrow may be eased and my tears dried because of the joy which may replace the pain I feel. Read and understand that which you must face and with faith and hope you will do so without fear. Read revelation 9 15 and onwards and mark that strength and never stop praying for your words and thoughts are heard and they are answered. Be ready to see and hear the answers which come to you in so many different forms. I leave you with this thought, love is everything in life. Love nourishes and directs and will never abandon those who trust and believe in the power of that gift from God. Read of it and use that which you read as your rule of life. Be obedient to Gods commands and know that they are His directions to you on how to love and to be loved. Read the first letter to the Corinthians chapter 12 and 13 and keep the wisdom contained within those few words within your mind and heart at all times.

When my children forgive then they find forgiveness and mercy. Let go of the hurts which bind you to the past and which keep you from receiving the graces which our Eternal Father wishes to give to you. My children, you were asked to love each of your brothers and sisters as my adored son, Jesus, loves you. Show that love through your thoughts and actions, your words and service. Give your brothers and sisters the words of the Christ and lead them to the lighted path of redemption. Seek to willingly remove the stains which bind you to worldly affliction through your confession of sin and completion of penance. Do not allow yourself to rush ahead blindly but always be guided by your discernment and your desire to perform Our Father's will in your life. Be aware of the traps which satan lays to ensnare you with and to divert you from your course. Pray to find understanding and to use the wisdom you gain for the benefit of all and with out the hope of reward. Selfless love and obedience is the way to show your true service for God. A time approaches when your tears and fears will be wiped away and replaced with peaceful joy and a world of harmony and realisation of the hope borne from faith. Trust, and approach the time of the new Pentecost with truth as your guide and the welfare of all as your only hope.

17th July 2007

Please accept the blessing and graces which our Eternal Father bestows upon all of His children and desires for them to receive. The way to have His grace come to you is to simply live a life in obedience to His commandments and thus be endowed with strength to remain in a state of grace and holiness. You are asked to live these rules and to abide in peace with your brothers and sisters. My adored son, Jesus, has shown you the mercy you can expect when you confess your sin, atone for that sin and repair the damage you have made on the path to God. It is His word and light and love which allows you to find salvation and grow through His great and humble sacrifice. He shows you the way to live through His example and I ask you to walk with Him and reside in the shelter of His Most Sacred Heart. His love for you is boundless and without favour and he wants all to return to the embrace of Our Father in heaven. When you live a life with Jesus as your guide then you live a life of purpose and service in which conversions and redemption can come to so many you meet. Do not ask for riches or abundance when you pray, for the wealth you need is found in the words of Holy Scripture and the messages which I am allowed to give to all. Read and learn the words which give strength and comfort, guidance and understanding. Spend time each day in studying the words of God and pray with renewed insight. Remain faithful to the words you read and be humble with your knowledge. Greatness in faith is not achieved by grand words or concepts but by simple, compassionate service. In all which you do, do all for Jesus. He is your brother, your saviour and your sanctuary and with Him beside you then you will never become lost. Remain faithful and see the reward of faith in your eternal joy and peace with Almighty God. Remain prepared at all times to find Him and to be called to Him. It is difficult and you will have moments of doubt and despair as well as the times of abundance and elation. Take the trials and tests which come to you and stand firm with truth and light and love as your bulwark.

18th July 2007

Prayer gives much and takes little effort. The rewards which you receive when you pray are peace and consolation, understanding and mercy, wisdom and hope. Pray, whenever you are able, within the true presence of my adored son, Jesus, as he waits for you in the Tabernacle. His presence makes it much easier for you to engage in sincere conversation with Him. He has given you this great gift of His eternal presence under the disguise of the host so you may not have fear when you come to Him. Be at peace and at rest when you pray for then you can truly listen to His words and make your intentions clear as well. Your prayer should be a sincere and meaningful and direct. Prayer for others is always received with joy and compassion and it shows your willingness to be humble and to serve all rather than yourself. Do not fear to ask for personal intentions though for they are received and weighed in accordance to your actions. Those who come only to ask for personal gain or favour may be granted that as a sign to increase faith and hope. I ask you to seek, however, to pray for the intentions of your brothers and sisters. This selfless by your constant acceptance of The Christ at the memorial of His sacrifice. Confess your weaknesses to Him and be strengthened by the merciful forgiveness you will be shown. Pronounce that great love to all you meet and never cease in the work of holy love.

10th September 2007

I ask you to look about you and see the things which may be distracting you from a complete acceptance of the mercy offered by my adored son, Jesus. He waits to help you through your difficult times but you must be the one to reach out to his outstretched hand. You must willingly accept Him into your life or He can not move through you and you can not be a beacon of hope which can shine through your actions for those who are in despair. Reject the worldliness which surrounds you and accept to grow in holiness in all things. This is not the time to be half hearted in your decisions and efforts for satan will use those weaknesses to great advantage. Pray as never before for the mitigation which will ease the suffering of so many of your brothers and sisters. Pray that they open their eyes and ears and come to know their saviour in this time of grace. Prayer is the answer to many of the questions you have and it is through prayer that you will hear the words of our Eternal Father, God. Pray always for His wisdom to descend upon you through the Holy Spirit and wisely choose to pray in quietness and complete surrender to His Holy will. Pray individually and pray as groups and let your unified prayers be as one voice in supplication and in praise. Your prayers as a family are most pleasing but always remain focused on the reason for your prayers. You seek to serve God and not any agenda of man or self so let the large portion of your times of unity be dedicated to that service of holy love and the redemption you wish to have all attain.

11th September 2007

So many of my children try to keep their hearts as hard and cold as a stone and I ask you to pray that they may open those hearts and receive the love of my adored son, Jesus. All will come face to face with Him at one time so I ask you to look at Him while you have the time to choose. He does not hide from you. Many have closed your eyes and hidden Him from sight because they fear the truth he will show to them. Their worldly comforts and pleasure mean more than eternal peace and that selfishness separates them from salvation. The greatest pleasure you should ask for in life is that which you receive from service to God and the redemption you may help your brothers and sisters to find. I ask you to understand that the Christ is stumble about without direction or purpose. The worldliness you accept for comfort is as a millstone which drags you to the depths of despair. The path of righteousness is not an easy one to follow for distraction come from all quarters to try and divert you. Do not let the obstacles deter you for all can be overcome with the help of Almighty God. His holy love will sustain you in your moments of need and His words will enlighten and encourage you if you will but read them as they are written in the Holy Scriptures. Wisdom awaits those who will embrace that wisdom and allow the Holy Spirit to infuse that special skill within their hearts and souls. Remain firm in your service to that holy love and embrace all who come to you as would The Christ. He is the model for your life and I ask you to all be willing to serve rather than be served. Forgive before you ask for forgiveness and guide as you are guided. Never allow the great sacraments which await you to be neglected for life exists within the reception of them. Live a life of simplicity, humility and obedience to the commandments which will always lead you to a life in harmony with God's plan for all.

9th September 2007

I often ask you to increase your prayer and contemplation about the passion and resurrection of my adored son, Jesus. Through your meditations you can find a deeper and more personal relationship with he who came to show you love and mercy and salvation. The example you live should be as he has taught you. In your times of meditation I ask you examine your conscience to the deepest corners and seek to remove the flaws which cause separation between yourself and our heavenly Father. Your sacrifice and suffering can not be understood by those who do not wish to enter into the way of service which you have chosen. Many will persecute and scoff and reject because of their lack of understanding. Let your first prayers be for them so they may be opened to the insight which waits to enter their mind. In spite of their efforts you will grow in understanding and holiness when you stand firm against the influences they try to force upon you. Do not compromise that which you know to be given by God for to do so would be to deny His love and His gifts. Trust in Him in every moment and allow Him to make everything which happens able to be turned to His good and to His purpose. In the darkest and most troubled times he will comfort you and give you strength. Be obedient to His words and let those words live through your words and actions and your complete obedience to His revealed truth. Spend time with me, your mother and let me carry your words and prayers to the feet of God. Show your love for the gift of redemption act of charity and love finds much favour in the eyes of Almighty God. Your intercession for others shows your humility and how much you have grown in love and understanding. Everything you do must be done to further the Kingdom of God and the desired redemption of all of His precious children. Your prayers allow The Christ to work through you as he did when he walked among you. His love is an example of pure humility and sacrifice for all and he asks you to bear witness to that same love through your example and service.

The truth of my adored son, Jesus, is a light which will illuminate all of my children. Let that light shine through your service and actions and be a beacon that guides all to the certain refuge of The Most Sacred Heart of the Christ and my Immaculate Heart. Accept His truth and you will accept His love and mercy and forgiveness. Do not be afraid of the trials which you face and know that when you act with love and compassion and truth in your heart then all trials will be swept away. Satan tries to disrupt and destroy all of God's works and goodness because he is the enemy of goodness and truth. He fights all who resist his temptations and seek to promote truth and salvation. He is the cause of confusion and misinformation, derision and prejudice, hatred and greed but his illusions are fragile and fall apart when tested. Be willing to discern all which happens around you and towards you and be aware that evil may try to present as the voice of reason and justice. This time is one which is fraught with deception and danger so show caution in the way you carry out your actions. Let the commandments be the example you follow to rightly judge the soundness of your service. Be humble and seek only to show pure love and selfless thought in all which you do for your brothers and sisters. Reach out to all who come to you and approach each with the understanding that their needs are greater and more important than yours. You will find that your desire to be clothed in simplicity and humility will help you to grow in holiness and understanding. Pray that you accept the challenges which come to you and have the courage to bear the burden of your little crosses. The willingness to suffer is a sign of the maturity you have achieved in understanding God's love and His great sacrifice. Bear your crosses and many will benefit from that action of love and obedience.

21st July 2007

Look to the Holy family as you guide on how to live as a family which is dedicated to each other as well as to Almighty God. We are a family of love and faith, prayer and obedience and above all trust and hope. By being obedient you draw great grace to you and those graces will help you to remain faithful to the service you are asked to render for our Eternal Father. All of my children are a family and I ask each to truly begin to care for each other as brothers and sisters should. There are many pitfalls which you will encounter along the journey to eternal glory and I ask you to always remain aware of the temptations and distractions which are placed ahead of you. Do not be diverted from the road because the way may seem blocked or hard, but with faith, persevere and move ahead and the road will clear and become firm once more. Pray for the ability to be persistent and to remain focused on your true goal. The light which my adored son, Jesus, shed upon the earth will make the way well lit if you allow that light to shine and grow brighter through your actions. Increase the light of His words and example, as shown through The Gospels, to all those whom you meet upon your journey. Be a true example of His mercy and love and compassion to all. Do not let your beacon be hidden and locked away for then it will dim and not be able to guide anyone, including yourself. The light of the Christ is needed more than ever before in these darkened times. Be courageous and resist the urge to step back and to not confront those who seek to extinguish the flame of Holy love which you bear.

The world is a source of beauty and love and life if you allow the light of my adored son, Jesus, to radiate upon it and all who live upon it. With out His light there is nothing of value and misery, darkness and pain will abound. His words are truth and truth is the way to live a rewarding and selfless life with everyone. Truth is unchanging and as such eternal and always valid. Truth is your armour and your sword. It is your vision and your quest. Truth rids the world of the darkness and deceit of satan. It reduces his seductions to mere memories when you confess and are forgiven. Nothing evil can withstand the force of truth for any great length of time for always truth will shine through every mask and every disguise. Clothe your self with the truth of The Christ as given through The Gospels. Learn the words which give life and salvation and hope to all and teach all who need to be taught. Our Eternal Father desire all of His children come to Him in paradise. It was for that purpose that you were created and that is the destination you should aim to find. Let go of the things which bind you to the world of man, especially evil man. Reject the false pleasures and rewards shown by satan for the price of accepting them and of trying to retain them is a sure and certain all if they will, through their freewill, accept that forgiveness which He has promised. Trust in the love of Our Father as shown through His Son and given to you through The Holy Spirit. Keep peace about you always, by receiving the Sacraments, and cleansing your soul through the sincere confession which will free you from bondage. When you accept the Holy Will of God you can be assured that His providence and love will sustain you in every day and every way. He will give you strength and He will shelter you. My Adored Son, Jesus, awaits the day when His sacrifice, given through His Divine mercy, will be accepted by all of His brothers and sisters as the great gift of love and redemption which it is. Turn to Him for forgiveness and it will be given. Allow His light to live within and through you when you become His true disciple. Continue to pray and much of what can be will be mitigated. Ask all you meet to open their eyes to the light of His love and clear their ears so they may hear the words of His unchanging truth. Only through accepting the truth of The Christ and humbly obeying the commandments of our Father can you hope to find real joy, contentment, abundance and eternal peace. Grow in understanding through the words I am allowed to give to you from our Father and also through the words you learn from Holy Scriptures. Wisdom has always been waiting for all in the book of life but it is up to each child to open it, read it and accept it. Read the wisdom of all but look to Proverbs 29 for special insight. Bear your burdens quietly and with the knowledge that you are never asked to bear more than you ask for.

8th September 2007

I thank you for again inviting me to be with you in you moment of solitude and prayer.

My children, I ask you to appreciate the time you are given in which to prepare for the great battle for souls. Especially use your quiet moments for reflection and prayer. Listen to the voice of our Eternal Father as He guides you on the path of redemption. With His guidance you can turn away from the sin which distorts so many in the world today. You will find peace in the forgiveness which comes to all who are reconciled with him through their admission of their sin. My adored son, Jesus, sacrificed His life so that you could partake in the great mercy He came to give and through His resurrection He showed the hope contained in God's entire plan for each of His children. Listen to His words and surrender to His divine will and accept the graces He will bestow on you. Reject the darkness because it does not hide you from His eyes it merely makes you own self and to change the ways which have separated you from the graces which will come to all who convert their life and choose to trust in God's will in their life. Do not avoid looking at the face of the Saviour and His truth as many do. There are always ways in which you can avoid looking at Him but eventually you will not have that ability and will stand before he who was slain to save you. You will have no answer for your rejection as you look at the face of compassion. Look at Him while the grace of time is given to you and find peace and purpose in your life.

5th September 2007

In your moments of weakness you will find strength and consolation in the words and love of my adored son, Jesus. You are called to be an imitation of his life and to help to open the minds and hearts of your brothers and sisters to find the salvation that is offered to all of them. It is the will of our Eternal Father, God, which you are called to serve and not your own will. It is by renouncing your will that you can make yourself available for the graces which will redeem you and so many. Open your self to those graces through the free admission of your sin and offences against God and by your well performed reparation for that sin. Let your actions be the way in which people may see the glory of God working through you. Grow in knowledge by learning the guidance given in the Holy Scriptures and pray for the lessening of your thoughts of self and the increase of your desire to become humble and obedient. All fall short of the perfection which they are asked to achieve but you are asked to strive to find the perfection which you can be raised to. Almighty God measures your growth to perfection not by the greatness or number of deeds you perform, but by the manner in which you perform them. Let selflessness and compassion always be your guide and you will be serving God in every way in the manner of The Christ. He humbled Himself and thought of none but His brothers and sisters by His sacrifice. He repaired the path of the way to God in order for all to be reconciled with The Father and He suffered so all could find peace eternal. I ask you to love Him with all your heart as you travel through life and you will be able to continue to love Him perfectly through all eternity.

6th September 2007

Continue to pray my children for the signs of the time continue for you and still you close your eyes. Be prepared and ready for our Eternal Father when He calls to you. Be ready and awake so that you can not claim to have been ill prepared. God's mercy is available to death for your soul if you should not repent before your time of calling. Cleanse yourself now and find the gates to salvation loom large in your eyes. Seek to live a life of charity and obedience, humility and service and be prepared to meet God, with joy, when He calls you to return home to Him. All who are sincere in their contrition will find forgiveness so do not fear to come before The Christ.

23rd July 2007

Our Eternal Father waits for His children to repent their wickedness and embrace the truth he has proclaimed for all. Forgiveness is available for all until the time of their last breath and God alone should be the judge of who can and can not be saved. Do not believe that you are beyond redemption for many times our Father has called those who were completely lost and directionless and given great grace to them. Look to the examples of so many of the Saints in heaven and realise that they were children much like you. Some were lost in material wealth and many abandoned Jesus for a life of pleasure and sin. It was God's great mercy and grace which drew them away from the abyss which threatened to swallow them and set their feet upon the road to glory. This path can be travelled by all who allow the voice of God to enter their hearts and take root there.

Simple trust and obedience will help that truth to grow within you and through you. With the acceptance of my adored son Jesus and His words within you, then the Holy Spirit can come to you and infuse you with wisdom and piety and a passion for evangelisation such as you could never have imagined. The final outcome of your life is controlled by your own freewill. Many try to influence that will with empty promises and temptations of reward and comfort. I am here to guide you to the truth and I let the Truth of the Christ and His promise be the way I help you to exercise your free will. In His presence you will have life eternal, peace and joy. His promise is real and not paved with gold or comfort. It is a way which offers hardship and trial, suffering and self restraint and, also, great happiness when you see the benefits which come from your example of service and humility. The greatest reward is not the fact of your salvation but the knowledge of conversion and salvation for your brothers and sisters. This is the great service you are asked to give and it is to this end that your prayers should be directed. Gain understanding and strength from your prayers and never fail to spend some quiet and uninterrupted time in conversation with our loving God in every day. Remove the stain of sin which hides the clarity of the path ahead by a sincere confession and apology and by the restoration of your damaged soul. Trust always and remain calm and peaceful on your quest. Be examples of Christ's love and charity and compassion and know that you are never alone on your journey.

When you accept the truth and life of my adored son, Jesus, as your example then you will find a peace beyond all understanding. His presence in your life will give you toughness and resolution so that you may withstand all trials and persecutions which come upon you. Those who choose to be humble servants of His holy Love will have moments of oppression and resistance for the worldliness of Satan has been embraced by many and they refuse to relinquish the false comforts they feel. Many are persuaded by those who are on the false path that the need to acknowledge our Eternal Father in their life is no longer necessary. True evil seeks to convince you that you are in control of every aspect of your life and that God no longer exists. Pray for those who preach such heresy for our Father loves them greatly in spite of their resistance. Pray that they may have their eyes and ears opened to the truth as given since time began. The truth must be promoted with as much conviction as given by those who espouse the deceptions which lead God's children away from His love and grace. Listen to the words I am allowed to pass to you and live the message which they give to you. Do not be blinded to the saving grace which waits for you by listening to the sly and subtle deceptions which are given by the deceiver. He holds only the power which you give to him so reject his advances and return to the mercy which is promised to you. Prepare now so that you will not be found lacking when Almighty God calls you to judgement. The world can be a haven for all in which all can live in friendship and selfless love for each other but the light of The Christ must be the beacon which illuminates all hearts and minds. Accept you have faults and ask for forgiveness of those errors. Pray each day for the will of God to be revealed in your life and give Him thanks and praise for all which He has given to you and will give to you throughout your life. Trust in His love and providence always and your faith and hope will set you on solid ground.

25th July 2007

My children, there is no grace to be found in plentiful abundance while those about you are suffering and destitute and devoid of any hope. What glory is there for any nation or leader of that nation which hordes and oversupplies their own people while their neighbours starve. What does it benefit them to have such abundance that they who come to Him in sincere prayer. Be at peace in your prayers and make the time to be with Him. Pray for His grace to come upon your brothers and sisters in order that their hearts may become open to receive the gift of His graces. A gift only becomes such when you receive it so open your arms and prepare to receive. Clean your soul from the sin which separates all from these gifts. Your unconfessed and unforgiven sin is like a disease which weakens you and isolates you from others and from God. The symptoms of that disease can not be revealed by physical medical means because it is a malady of the spirit, not of the body. The result of sin, however, is always the same for it ends in death. God and His redeeming grace as shown through my adored son, Jesus, is the cure for this fatal ailment. Believe and trust in the mercy which is given to you and give thanks and praise always for that great love. Expose your illness through your confession of sin and your desire to remove it and never again be subject to that sin. Through your remorse and reparation and with the knowledge of the Holy Spirit you will be given strength to resist sin. Read Psalm 37:3-13 and be aware of the simple way of our Eternal Father's care for you.

4th September 2007

Many of my children wander aimlessly in their life and lack direction and hope. They find comfort in material matters and lack the spiritual nourishment which they need. Do not allow the allure of the world to hide the truth of your heavenly eternity. In your existence there are great divisions between those who have wealth and power and those who are used as the foundation for that wealth. Those who seek power and prestige do not serve our Eternal Father regardless of the reasons they present publicly. If you wish to serve God and your brothers and sisters as a result of your service then you must become small. Remove attention from yourself and quietly achieve the goals which God has shown to you. In humility and quiet you can achieve much towards the salvation of all. You are asked to perform your work of holy love from pure love and charity and to not seek reward or recognition. Reach out to all you meet with the image of my adored son, Jesus, as your image. Help guide those who are in darkness to the path by lighting the way with the beacon of Christ's truth and mercy. Your sin is a means by which you are held back from accepting the truth and your sin is also the reason for the truth being given. To become free you must renounce sin and find forgiveness for the sins you have committed through your honest confession of that sin and your penance. Be willing to confront your constantly and increase your wisdom, understanding, and love. Be patient and persistent with those who detract and scoff and look to the reasons for their lack of faith. Be an example of The Christ to them and most importantly try to grow in holiness and understanding. Many of the members of the bride of Christ seek to abominate that bride. and many have not been good examples as followers of His truth and light and it is not difficult to see how the enmity has arisen between so many. The church is far from perfection but do not let that imperfection be a reason to deny or reject the perfection of Jesus. My children, those who reject their brother and saviour because of mans imperfection must come to realise that in spite of what the church shows as their representation of Christ's love and sacrifice He is perfection. He has not yet been able to make His bride perfect but be aware that he can and will bring perfection through His mercy and forgiveness. He will make His bride to be without spot or wrinkle or any such stain and she will be holy and blameless. Pray that the human imperfection which clouds so many at this time is lessened and removed. Be faithful and obedient to The Commandments and by your example you can heal many of the ailments which abound. Let holy love and the will to serve each other in selfless love be your true desire. I ask my consecrated sons to remove the pride and arrogance which so many of you have and realise that all are a part of the body of the bride and all are called to live their part in the great commission which leads to salvation. The desire of all Disciples of Christ must be that God might be worshipped with love and appreciation by all who are redeemed and that the saved come from every tribe and people and nation on earth. Our Father does desire all to come to eternity and to fulfil His promise to them of a life in His true presence. All which you are asked to do is to trust and have hope for the new world. Read and understand God's great love as shown through all Holy Scripture. Read the 2nd letter of Peter chapter 3 verses 9 to 18 and keep strength about you and your commitment.

3rd September 2007

My children, you have had the promise given to you that you will never be alone and I remind you of that promise. Many feel rejected and dismissed by those around them but our Eternal Father wants you to accept His love into your life so that you may find comfort and support. His care for all of His children is constant and freely given. His presence in your life will remove the loneliness of all who feel lost and tempted to deny Him. Talk with Him often for He does listen to all watch the excess spoil and rot and do not raise a finger to feed the needy? Many give of their wealth but not of their time and resources. Money given is often squandered and can not feed a hungry child whereas food which is given can. What does a world have to say for itself when it neglects it's elderly and unborn and ill with the same lack of concern. I ask you to explain to Almighty God why you express brotherhood and concern with one hand and wield a bloodstained sword with the other and usually against those you purport to care about. Satan has woven a web which has entangled you in so many ways. He has seduced your thoughts and harnessed your ego and pride. He has convinced you that the welfare of a few is of less importance than that of the many and yet he also convinces you that a few have more power than the majority. He has forced so many to compromise against the truth and commandments of God in favour of great abominations and perversions of God's norms. He has led man to the brink of destruction and all the while they march on happily and blinded to his deceptions. My children, your journey contains moments of trial and triumph, ecstasy and despair but remember that your path is no different to the one which my adored son, Jesus, trod upon and showed to you as the correct way to glory. Many try to convince you that the path is one that should be easy and abundant with comfort and joy. Some of that which they tell you, my children, is correct, and some is a delusion which they want to believe but which can never be. There is only one way to find eternal glory and that is through the acceptance of Christ's mercy and forgiveness and obedience to the law of God. Do not be misled into believing that to say you are a follower of Christ is enough to give you salvation. You must fully commit your life to Him, follow His example in everything and be aware of the need to constantly renew your soul by confessing your sin and making amends for your offence. Many accept Christ but fail to come to Him in humility and with sincere contrition and they are in a state of grave danger for the sins which have amounted and not released will be called to account when they stand in judgement before the seat of mercy. You are warned often to abide by the teachings and guidance of your brother and Saviour and I ask you now to pray for forgiveness for your sins and the sins of others. Read and learn the truth of the Scriptures and The Gospels which have always held the truth and walk with God on your journey. Read 1 Samuel 7 verse 6 and Galatians 3 verse 15 and understand the meaning of reconciliation as revealed in Matthew 16 18 to 19.

26th July 2007

I tell you often of the need to repent and change your life and return to the service of our Father. I ask this because of the love which I bear for all of my dear children. Our eternal Father acts from love in all which He does and it is for love of His faithful children that he will eventually act to repair the damage which has occurred. He chooses to not interfere directly from respect for your freewill but He is a God of Justice as well as a God of mercy. Your offences will tip the scales of justice against you if you do not reverse the way in which God is offended and neglected. God's justice will cleanse the evil forever from His children and His wrath is as terrible as His mercy is great and wonder filled. He allows you to see His warnings and those who look and hear do see the signs in increasing numbers. I am not able to say when his day of cleansing will begin for that time depends on you. All can be mitigated and perhaps avoided if you simply seek to obey His commandments and live according to them and the truth of my adored son, Jesus. I know that the cleansing will be a time of fear and anguish and you have been told this since The Christ first told you as revealed in the Gospel of Luke chapter 21 but it will also be a time which will lead to peace and universal joy in Christ's presence. Read Isaiah 61:3 and remove the fear which should not be upon any of the faithful remnant. Pray that Gods judgement is swift and merciful and be prepared at all times for His coming. Repair your relationship with your true Father now and simple ask for forgiveness. Grace comes to all who sincerely repent and begin to live a life in the way of Christ's example.

27th July 2007

Let my adored son, Jesus, be the example you follow and wish to live in your life. Release yourself from the culture of celebrity which so many are misled by. Be courageous enough to be an individual who follows faith rather than fad or fashion and teach your children of the peace and true joy to be found in letting go of the need to always be one of the misguided many who blindly follow material idols. Look to those you wish to emulate and ask if their life is something which serves God and His commands or if it is selfish and filled with false hopes and illusions. Be willing to serve and to remain humble and hidden and quiet. Do not seek acclaim or reward for anything which you do but be satisfied when you have performed your task, all for the love of God. Enjoy the satisfaction and happiness you see in others when you reach out to them in holy love and when you help guide them back to the path which they thought they had lost. Pray forgiveness for those moments of offence. It is time to ask for His mercy to be shown to you and for you to be an example of that same mercy and love.

1st September 2007

It is a great blessing that my children can accept the mercy and love and forgiveness which is offered to them. It is a source of great sorrow that many do not take advantage of the freely given gift of holy love. I ask you to open your hearts to our Fathers love and give as you will receive. Such peace can abound between all of my children if they will learn the truth as show by my adored son, Jesus. He showed that all are forgiven through His words and actions. He was mocked and rejected by those who were filled with pride and selfishness and material wealth. He is still rejected by those same people and still they ask why He befriends sinners and those who are rejected by society. His answer then is the same now for He comes to heal the sick but many do not realise sickness is found in all places and among all levels of society regardless of material wealth. The illness He cures is the sparsity of hope and compassion and the darkness of the soul. Allow His words to instruct you and His light to open your eyes and His forgiveness to enable you to forgive. Do not build enmity between yourself and others but be willing to accept any they may show. In all times the disciples of Christ have been persecuted and many times by those who profess a belief in that same Christ. If you are rejected then pray for those who reject and ask for god to enlighten them but do not force your presence upon them. Pray quietly and earnestly for them but do not let the hatred and illness they have infect your mind. Move on in your work of holy love and accept that not all will find conversion or salvation even though you truly desire for them to do so. Their freewill makes the decision to be saved or lost and I ask you to do as Our Eternal Father does and respect and honour the gift of freedom which was given by Him. True freedom comes to those who choose to take it by living a life of obedience and charity. Your choice of freedom is whether or not to become a servant of Almighty God or a slave to self and to sin. Truly the way to freedom lies in the path of service and obedience and in your rejection of freewill to do wrong and to commit offence against God's will and plan.

2nd September 2007

Moment by moment, by faith, trust God our Eternal Father to manifest the presence of my adored son, Jesus, in and through you by the power of the Holy Spirit. Allow the Holy Spirit to fill you asked to spend eternity in happiness and peace with our Eternal Father but you must, as always, make the choice of what you want to do. There are two paths to follow and one is wide and easy and filled with comfort and ease and worldly pleasure and riches. One is narrow and uneasy but it is straight and well lit and those who travel that path will pass through the narrow gate at the conclusion of the journey. Resist the temptation to experience a comfort and pleasure filled life for you forfeit your eternity for the transitory moment. The burdens of those on the narrow road are relieved by the mercy they gain from their closeness to the Sacred Heart of the Christ. Stay close to His protection as He walks the pathway with you. Remove your doubts and moments of rejection by finding quiet time to be with Him with your prayers. Place your troubles at the foot of the cross of salvation and He will lessen your load. The quickest way to alleviate that burden is to unshackle the chains of sin through the confession of that sin and actions to repair the damage your offences have caused. Permit Him to help you to search your conscience and cleanse your soul so that the graces which will support you may come to you from The Father.

31st August 2007

My children, you are called to follow the example of my adored son, Jesus, when you accept Him into your life. To do so will mean that you will be tested in every way and you will be tempered in the fire of trial and temptation. You must give completely of yourself in this time and follow the path which he walked. You must give of your selfless love and compassion even when you are shunned and rejected by those you reach out to. There will be times when you feel loneliness and loss as you enter the desert, as He did, and I ask you to be contemplative and prayerful at those times. Be on guard for satan will try to deceive you when you feel weak in the same way as he did with The Christ. Your obedience and humility and faith will help you counter the attacks by the prince of the earth. Enter the wilderness with hope in your heart and not fear or timidity. Do not fail to speak with our Eternal Father because of any sense of unworthiness for He truly waits to listen to all of His greatly loved and cherished children. He listens to all even though they may deny Him and may have rejected Him. His greatest joy is when He welcomes back one who was lost but has found the path home. Accept His grace into your life so you may be guided along the path to salvation and help to direct your brothers and sisters along that same path. Receive His grace when you openly admit your failings and sin and have gained that you may have wisdom and enough humility to make the service to God's will the prime concern in your life. When you do that then others around you will not be neglected because of your choice but their lives will become enhanced and filled with the love which you bring to them from our Eternal Father. Many of my children do not take up the badge of service because they listen to, and act upon, selfish advice given to them by others who fear they will no longer have the level of attention which they believe they deserve. Persevere and trust that God will soften their hearts when they see the joy which your actions will bring. Encourage them to help in their own little ways for the work is plentiful and many hands and hearts are need if the world is going to recoil from the abyss.

Let every thing which you do allow people to see the love and mercy of my adored son, Jesus, as reflected through your actions. He needs to be the centre of all which you do and His commandment to love God and each other must be in every decision you make. It is not sufficient to say that you follow the teachings and words of truth of the Christ but you must live that truth and show His compassion and charity. Be prepared, now, to stand and proclaim the words of The Gospels to all whom you meet. Many will not listen but many will and by your perseverance even more will hear in time. Our Eternal Father wants His every one of His children to share paradise with Him and your service towards that end will be greeted with great joy in heaven. There are many who seek to disrupt your life and the exercise of your faith and standards. Do not let their voices dissuade you from remaining faithful and obedient. Satan has influenced many to listen to his false promises and empty hopes but his hold is not long lasting and soon he will see the triumph of My Immaculate Heart and be cast forever into the abyss of despair along with his disciples. Cleanse your souls, now, so that you will not follow him into the eternal misery which will await those who do not repent of wickedness and fault. Confess your sin, now, and return again to the love of God. You will have to continue to pray in order to maintain your conviction and strength in the face of the coming battles. Take time to carry out your prayers and do so in quiet and without any distraction. Let go of all of your worldly concerns when you talk with our God and let Him hear your sincere heartfelt words. He knows the content of your heart and soul and desires for you to confront your weaknesses and failings and clear your mind of the distractions which distort your perceptions and ability to serve.

30th July 2007

I ask my children to be ever ready servants of holy love so that the lost sheep may be fed and guided by you to the safety provided in the Sacred Heart of my adored son, Jesus, the good shepherd. He laments for every one of His flock who are lost forever and asks you to help Him to gather in those who still may be saved. The way to stay within the green pastures provided by God's love and mercy are few and simple. Love one another selflessly and love God as he loves you. Respect His love by obeying His commandments and help all who have fallen short of those commandments to come back to the life which leads to paradise. Accept your failures and acknowledge them to God and ask forgiveness for the offence you have caused and urge your brothers and sisters to do likewise. Stand in awe of God and His majesty and works and also work in appreciation of His humility which He showed when He became one of us, a mortal man, born to suffer and be humiliated, rejected and put to death. Rejoice in His great promise to all that sin is forgiven and that forgiveness and reparation leads to new life and an eternal reward in heaven. I ask you often to be humble and I ask only because I was willingly humbled before our God and He willed that He, Himself, be humbled before us. If Almighty God can be humble then we surely have the ability to also be that way. Serve Him as He came to serve you and always give thanks and praise for the time you are given in which to prepare for the battles you must fight and for the gift of love which you will show to others. Know that I hold all of my children within my heart and I intercede for all so that all may find the grace needed to have faith and hope and to find redemption.

31st July 2007

I remind my children of the need to be thankful for all which you have been given and will be given. Be especially thankful for the burdens and persecutions which come to you and the entire faithful remnant and bear those crosses with humility and dignity. Do not reject them but ask for more for all you are given comes to you through the will of The Eternal Father. Trust in His love and know that He is with you in moments of despair and need. Allow Him to remain the centre of attention in all which happens and know that He will turn all, who are willing, to His purpose in His way and in His time. Maintain your faith and hope for the light of my adored Son, Jesus, is the foundation you will be able to turn to and hold. Do not be distracted by your trials. Pray and invite our Eternal Father, God, to be with you during those difficult moments. Grow in knowledge and love of The Lord and presence in the hearts of all. Act now before His time of cleansing for the time of salvation will have passed when that time comes.

29th August 2007

Give yourself completely to the will and providence of our loving Eternal Father. The remedy for your trials is faith and hope which is borne from prayer and service. If you pray and do nothing to help your brothers and sisters then it is as if you are planting a seed and failing to give it water. The plant will gain life but without nourishment it will wither and die. Your entire life is affected in the same way for without spiritual nourishment and enrichment your soul will become sick and can be lost forever. The food you need is the truth and light of my adored son, Jesus, for He alone has the power to free you from the poison of sin through His merciful forgiveness. Seek to understand more and allow the inspiration of His knowledge into your hearts. He will not leave those who sincerely believe and follow Him to suffer the full ravages which are set for those who deny and reject his teachings. Many will seek Him when it is too late to start searching and many will still be drunk with pride and arrogance when the judgement of God visits them. Do not be found sleeping but prepare now through your earnest desire to make reparation for your confessed sin. The greatest trap of satan's into which you can fall is the false belief of time being endless and warnings being long. I do not know the hour or day of The Lord as He alone has that knowledge. He does give warnings and signs and messages but those guides can just as easily be removed when the time of His judgement is to come. If you ask at that time if it is now to be the time of judgement then you have failed to learn anything and you risk your eternal glory and happiness in the presence of almighty God. Be prepared at all times for he will call you soon enough, some will be first and many will be last but all will be called before the seat of The most high. Pray, read Holy Scriptures, learn and receive The Sacraments often so that you will be prepared. Read the Book of Proverbs chapter 3 and accept His gentle and sweet guidance which is given solely from his fatherly love.

30th August 2007

Accept the love and truth of my adored son, Jesus, and find that your heart will always reside with almighty God and your actions will be for your brothers and sisters. You grow in humility and compassion when you commit to the service of God's Holy love. Holiness is a state of your spirit, not of your mind and is built through selflessness, obedience, charity and contemplative moments of prayer. You are offered from love of God and His mercy. This is a time when actions are needed as well as words and your example must be a faithful imitation of Christ and His truth and light. There can be no room for compromise or half hearted efforts for satan will seize upon your weakness and prosper by the confusion he can spread. Weakness and consensus and a lack of faith is a cancer which will spread through the body of The Bride of Christ. It will transform the beauty into a pale and much flawed imitation of the truth. The cure for the illness is not found in new ideas and new ways which include practises which stem from evil but it is found in adherence to the revealed truth of the Holy Word of God and The Gospels. Prayer will give you strength and insight and The Holy Spirit will, as was promised, come upon all who truly believe and commit to the battle against wickedness and sin.

28th August 2007

I ask again for all of my children to prepare for the time when they will be made aware of their failings and see the glory of God become manifest upon the earth. All will find his presence in their souls at that time so do not plead that you have not been warned of His coming. Confess your sins now and perform your reparation for your offence. My adored son, Jesu, shed His precious blood upon the entire world so that you could be freed from the slavery of sin. Be cleansed by that life giving issue of redeeming love and receive His body often and be strengthened through His presence within you. Remain faithful and obedient in the face of the opposition and distraction which try to move you from the path of glory. Remove the pride which you feel and do not try to do that which you know is not God's will at this time. God has a time for everything to occur in your life and you must be on guard against the temptation to rush ahead of His plan and will. Pray for understanding of His will and for guidance on how to remain patient. All of His children are important to Him and loved equally in His eyes and all are called to return to the arms of their creator. Remain firm in your commitment to serve with His holy love as your guide. Be compassionate and tireless in your efforts to help your brothers and sisters to convert their life and find salvation. Spend time in contemplation and prayer about the great gifts which you have been shown and have had offered but act upon the revelations you are given. Change can not occur if you do not show how it can through your efforts and actions. You must show God's presence in your life is real and tangible. Be selfless and let all you do be for the glory of God and the expansion of His realised receive His compassion and Divine Mercy each day. Spend time in peaceful prayer and silent reflection each day and feel His closeness to you. Trust and keep peace about you. Remove your pride and your self love a little at a time and replace the flaws with selfless action and always with compassion and mercy and love. Almighty God will lift up the humble and the righteous servants and will place them in the place of honour. Serve His Holy will and do all which you are able to help in the redemptive work of your brothers and sisters. You are never alone in your work and your example will lead others to achieve the same purpose. Those who do the will of God do so because the gifts of His truth and His love reside within them. The Christ has promised to live within and through those who accept Him and confess and reject their sinful ways. When He lives within you the Holy Spirit comes upon you and with the direction of The Father and love of the Son and courage of the Holy Spirit nothing can stand against you and the triumph of the Trinity over evil.

1st August 2007

I ask you, my children, to be prepare at all times for the time of God's great mercy. Never allow your mind to be distracted and remain faithful to the truth and light as shown by my adored son, Jesus. Persist in your service and desire to help guide all to the redemption which is to be found by all who embrace the truth of the Christ and repent their sins. His mercy awaits all who come before Him in humility and contrition and who accept a life in imitation of His. Obedience and service are certain ways in which you can show your love for our Eternal Father. Pray for those souls who are refusing to come to know the truth of God's compassion and mercy and ask that their eyes be opened. Give to them the messages that have been given for the benefit of all and guide them to see the signs of God's presence in their lives. Through your prayers and through your example and your love you can help many hearts to be opened to the truth of The Christ. Be willing to persist in your efforts and in your resistance to the temptations of satan to take an easy path and to embrace worldliness and comfort. There are many deceptions which are thrown at my children but when you pray and ask for protection then you will be given wisdom and understanding to discern all and to reject that which is not of God. Be especially aware of those who seek to weaken the bride of the Christ through their own pride and desire to gain recognition and hold power over you. True servants seek to serve God and serve His will alone and act in true humility always.

2nd August 2007

My children, you are often distracted by many of the worldly attractions which come to you but I ask you to finally realise that all which is made by your hands is never permanent. It will pass away just as your bodies will pass away and all will crumble and be as dust. God's mercy and love are the only constants which never fail in life. Many seek to deny His presence and many openly defy His commandments and resist His merciful forgiveness by their actions. I ask you to proclaim salvation through forgiveness to them and help guide them back to the protection and promise offered by my adored son, Jesus. Be aware of the great apostasy which is taught by so many who seek to change the truth as shown by The Christ. Read and learn the Gospels for all of His truth and teachings are there and none may be altered or lessened or denied with out the grace of that truth being lost to those who abominate it. Do not fall prey to the traps set by satan and always be aware that the acceptance of Jesus as saviour is an ongoing commitment to service and reinforcement of that acceptance. There can be no redemption without your confession of sin and reparation for that sin. Unreleased sin binds your soul to your human body and will stop many from finding paradise. I love my children and beg that they cleanse their souls while there is time to do so. I want to hold each of my children in heaven as does our Father so please listen to our plea and be prepared. Chaos can surround you but those with the grace of salvation will always find peace and remain calm through the trials and turmoil. Pray and read scripture and learn how to remain faithful. Read the first letter to Timothy chapter 6 and trust in Gods charity.

3rd August 2007

Do not be distracted by the illusions which satan places before you or the doubts which are placed in your mind. Those who forget that everything comes from our loving Father are also going to fail to give Him praise and thanks for His gifts. He is our Father, our creator and as such deserves the acclaim we should give to the one who provides for our needs. You place yourself ahead of Him when you do not acknowledge His presence in all which you have and when you do that then you fall into grave error. You are children of God but always you will be less than God. This is easy to accept if you remain humble and obedient to Him and His commandments. When you consider yourselves to be equal to or greater than God, then you need to be prepared for His justice that will come upon you and all who think that way. Never be so foolish as to put Him to the test for acceptance of His merciful forgiveness. He is your way to return back to the arms of our eternal Father and to His promise of paradise. There is much inequity among my children and you are divided over matters which stem from greed and pride and intolerance and bigotry. The path to a solution is a road which is not easily travelled and more often refused than accepted. If you believe that change must happen then you must begin the change willingly and let the graces of almighty God flow upon you to give you direction and courage and persistence. Do not believe that the ills of the past can be healed overnight but with patient persistence and prayer you can achieve much. Do not let the trials and the times of your desert experience taint your hope and trust for all grace will come to those who remain faithful to the will of God and to His directions. He calls you to a life which is steeped in holiness and service for others and humble actions. Proclaim the good news of salvation to all who come to you but do so with respect and love and gentleness. Remember that satan will try to distract you from your course with his empty promises and riches. Be ready for his approaches by cleansing your soul through your confession and penance and you will be better able to resist his offers. The difference between salvation and eternal distress is a simple yes and I ask you to say yes to God and to His love which is given to all.

27th August 2007

The pains of past transgressions can cause my children much unnecessary distraction and turmoil. By confessing your sins and performing your penance you remove the stain of those sins and as such you should remove the constant reminder of that sin as well. There is no gain in living in the past with forgiven sins because the grace which comes to the faithful and forgiven children is meant to allow you to avoid that sin again and to proclaim your salvation. Our Father has forgiven you through the covenant which He has made with all of His children through the sacrifice of my adored son, Jesus. His forgiveness is with you so I ask you to allow your forgiveness to be extended to your own faults. Allow God's merciful love to flood the areas of hurt and distress and become filled with His peace. His forgiveness is passed to you through the hands of my dear consecrated sons and I ask you to go to them often and be absolved of all your sins. I ask my consecrated sons to remember the reason they answered the call which was given to them and remain strong and faithful to the truth they promised to give and the service they with Him and to place your worries and burdens at His feet. He calls so many to lessen their burdens and yet so few respond to His equally shared and offered love and mercy. Let go of the things of the world which distract you and bind you in such amounts that you believe you have no time to spend with Him. Come to Him in complete hope and remember that great graces come to those who act out of hope even when they can not themselves see and feel God's presence about them. Many are tested in that way and many fall prey to feelings of abandonment but you truly are never alone. The separation you feel can lead to abandonment of God and His commandments and of your belief in His plan for all. I ask you to remain faithful to Him at all times and most especially with in the dark times when you feel you are separated. Never forget that God is our Father and our creator and we can not replace Him with the products of our misguided beliefs and pride. Many offend our Father through their desire to promote the use of the unborn to be items to be destroyed and abominated just for man's selfish needs. Our Father has said you will suffer if you allow the abominations against His glorious creations to continue. The Christ said that as you do to the least of my brothers and sisters you will do the same to me. You must remove the sin which is ruining your moral consciousness and understanding of family and life and also your kinship with God. You must alter your ways now and receive His mercy and His forgiveness through the absolute confession and renunciation of your wrongful actions and offences. Come before Him in humility and obedience and a simple desire to repair the damage you have caused. This is your time of preparation and many acts of selflessness and service and charity will be needed to prepare for the time of cleansing so that it may not be as painful as it could be. Your actions now will help ease the pain for others by making them aware of the need to convert their lives into a life for Christ. Again I tell you that time is short so I plead with you to pray with renewed hope and vigour. Make your prayers sincere and simple and selfless. Much can be mitigated through prayer and I ask you to never stop your efforts to bring all into the presence of the mercy of our Eternal Father, Almighty God.

Your sincere prayers are needed more than ever before and they can do much to help all find salvation. By your actions and examples those who live without the truth of my adored son, Jesus, in their life will see the peace and happiness to be found in complete

His desire is to be merciful and loving but you will feel His righteous judgement. Ask forgiveness for the sin you have which causes great offence to Him and promise to never again commit that error. Those who seek forgiveness find mercy and peace and have their hearts opened to receive the loving graces which come to all who freely decide to live within the family of God and to live for that family. My adored son, Jesus, asked you to consider the commandments as the way to find happiness and joy. He gave the great commandment to you and if you live that commandment fully then you love not only your brothers and sisters as you love The Christ but also you give your acceptance to all of Gods commandments. These times leave many wondering and worrying and I ask you to grow deeper in your prayer life and devotions to God and His will. Fear will dissipate when you receive the strength offered through your prayers and through the reception of the real body of Jesus at the celebration of His sacrifice for you. Remember, though, that forgiveness and salvation is a promise, not a right, and you must continually exercise your devotion and desire to remain cleansed and prepared.

5th August 2007

To give complete service for our Eternal Father you must learn to follow His directions and will in all which you do. There is much to be done to assist your brothers and sisters to find the truth of my adored son, Jesus, and receive the promise of His forgiveness and salvation. Pray that you remain strong in the face of the trials and tribulations which come to you and all who proclaim the truth and maintain faith and hope in God's mercy. The grace of the Father is poured upon those who sincerely perform His will and He will sustain you and protect you in your moments of need. Pray that you remain focused on the path which you follow to the eternal joy of heaven. Many fall away because they allow the deceptions of satan to misguide them and blind them. Come back to the path and remain firm through your frequent and wholesome reception of the sacraments. Maintain your purity by constant confession of your faults and weaknesses and always spend quality, quiet time in conversation with God. Be vessels of God's love and remain filled and always able to show His love through your actions and words. Do not waste time in hesitation for time is not a commodity to be wasted. Do what you are asked to do, now, and help bring about the era of peace which will come upon all when the world is cleansed and satan and his evil are thrown into the depth of hell.

6th August 2007

Learn to forgive each other for all of the errors which all do commit. Satan's deception is greatest when my children fall into sin for the stain of that sin taints all of the beauty and good works which they have done in the service of our Eternal Father. Their sin does not corrupt the good which they have done. It corrupts their soul and their ability to go on in good works. Confess your sins and cleanse your souls so that God's glory may continue to be proclaimed by you who have felt His saving grace. Repair the damage and remove the impediment to service through your penance and prayers. My adored son Jesus has offered His forgiveness and it is your choice to accept or reject that great mercy. When you are tempted to judge, remember His example and follow it in truth and humility and love. Read of His love and ability to remove your sins as foretold in Psalm 40 and shown in the Gospel of John chapter 8 verses 1 to 16.

7th August 2007

Carry the truth of my adored son, Jesus, within your heart and show it in your actions. I ask you, my children, to defend the truth and to protect and cherish and nourish the truth with every part of your being. Never allow the pressure of resistance and the attempts to persuade you to conform to different ideas to veer you from the true course which is to reveal God's holy love to all. The truth will give you strength to overcome the trials you have and those which you witness as well. God's plan is not revealed completely to any of His children so trust and hope must be a main ingredient in your faithful obedience. In humility accept all which comes to you and find that His providence is showered upon those who bear witness to His compassion and mercy. He will send to you the ability to meet your needs and the people who can help you to guide and to be guided. All have a purpose in the redemptive plan for all of God's children but you must realise and completely accept God's will. Listen to His words as he speaks to you through your prayers and always let your service and example be a proclamation of His revealed truth and justice.

8th August 2007

Thank you for again inviting me to be with you this day. I give my maternal blessing to all my children this day and intercede for you. My children I love you with a mother's love and I am here to guide you to my adored son, Jesus. There are many trials and problems which beset you at this time and I tell you that the lack of faith shown by so many of my children increases the severity and impact of your burdens. When faith dies then so does hope die and hope is what is truth. You must become examples of peace and prayer and holiness if you are ever to teach those qualities to your brothers and sisters. When you accept the truth of my adored son, Jesus, as the guide for your life it is just the beginning of your journey. You will be tested along the path and tempted to find the easy life and I ask you to gain strength and knowledge that you may be able to avoid the pitfalls which have been set. Pray and let your prayer be a true discussion between yourself and our loving and patient Father. A discussion has two parts so always say what you want to say but be willing to spend time in listening and looking for the answers which are given to you. Our Father wants His children to grow in their spiritual stature for in that aspect of life all have the ability to be equal. He loves even those who reject and deny Him and he laments those who are lost because of their pride and unwillingness to simply ask Him to forgive and help cleanse their soul. He waits for all to return to Him and to respond to His love and providence and mercy but still so many refuse to even acknowledge Him as a part of their life. Many say that they have no need of forgiveness for the offences that commit and many say they will make amends when the time is right. I tell you that the time is right, now, and I beg of you to not delay the moment of confession and penance which you must perform to find your salvation. Offer your prayers for protection from the events which come to warn you of the coming tribulation and most especially pray that guidance be accepted by those who have so far rejected the prompting which has been shown. When people speak of things being different to any other time or as they have never been before then you will know that the time is close. Prayer can mitigate much of the pain of that time and also of the events which point to the time. Everything, as usual, is determined by your freewill and willingness to be obedient to the directions you are given. Pray, trust, fast and maintain hope for all will be renewed and cleansed one day.

25th August 2007

My adored son, Jesus is your saviour and your example to follow and he is your guide to eternal joy. He knows your weaknesses and your abilities and patiently waits for you to keep pace with Him so do not rush ahead blindly. His Most Sacred Heart is your shelter from the storms which rage about you and He is the means of your spiritual nourishment in your times of thirst and hunger. He comforts you in your moments of distress and He is the one who can heal the wounds which come through your sins. Trust in His mercy and forgiveness completely and pray often for He wants for you to talk deceptions. He desires for you to be joined with Him in the endless joy of heaven and as such He gives you promptings and understanding to achieve that goal. Use the knowledge which you gain to live a life of service and obedience to his simple and necessary commandments. Do not be led to believe one rule is less important than another for true peace and life comes through your complete acceptance of all of them. They are rules which allow all to live with respect and true equality in God's eyes.

23rd August 2007

My adored son, Jesus, gave His life for love of all God's children. Remain close to His most Sacred Heart through your prayers and service. He is always present and waiting for you to turn to Him in trust and from faith. He promised that he would never leave you and He is faithful to His promise as He is present in the tabernacle and waiting for you to speak with Him. He is in the face of all whom you meet and I ask you to be awake and to not fail to see Him when He is shown to you. He is the orphaned and homeless, the refugee and the infirmed. He is the unborn child and the elderly and the lonely that seem to be with out hope. You can see His face in all of these brothers and sisters but many do not. It is difficult to look into the eyes of Christ when you look the other way or turn your back. Everyone is offered Christ's mercy and love and your duty is to promote that compassion in His name. Our Eternal Father will give you the grace and strength you need to perform your acts of holy love so continue to have faith and trust and hope. God is the hope of all and it is through you that He shows that hope. It is through the prayers of the faithful remnant the he hears your pleas and your sorrows. It is because of love that He waits for those who have rejected Him to find salvation before He acts to cleanse the world of the evil which tries to overrun. Resist the illusion of power and prosperity and return to simple devotion and simple standards. Adopt once more the commandments which lead to holiness and ultimately to salvation through the forgiveness offered by Jesus who is God and Saviour. Be cleansed now through your confession of fault and through your penance and remain faithful through the trials which come at the end of the time of evil. Remove your faults and weaknesses completely for satan knows well what they are and will use them to try to control your thoughts and actions.

24th August 2007

My children, you learn as you are shown and I ask you to become an instrument of teaching to those who have never been shown the needed to stand firmly against the wickedness, temptation and destruction which you witness in every day. You must build a better world through your actions and prayers but that is not possible unless you revive your beliefs in love and compassion and above all have hope for a better time. Our Eternal Father will renew His creation one day but His mercy is such that He holds His hand back in the hope that as many who can be saved will willingly accept His offer of forgiveness and deliverance. His desire is as simple and pure as are His commandments. He wants all of His children to share in paradise but that is not going to happen if you do not accept the rules which lead you to that reward. Through prayer and sacrifice and penance you can begin to be worthy examples of Christ's truth and can serve God completely and humbly with the virtues given to aid you by the Holy Spirit. You must maintain your faith when you have accepted it through frequent reception of the Sacraments, through prayer and through selfless service for God. Remain pure in your thoughts and cleanse any impurities by your admission of those stains and you will receive freedom through the hands of my dear consecrated sons as they exercise the power of Christ's mercy through His grace. Pray that those sons and all who impart spiritual nourishment and blessings may remain faithful to the original call which they answered. Pray that they remove any vestige of pride or arrogance and may be true vessels of God's word and of His pure love and hope for all. The signs which call you to be prepared increase around you and those who have seen must have the courage to open the eyes of those who have blinded their own vision and turned away. Remain at peace and with calmness and quietness about you and you will help many to find their way to salvation. Pray that those who once knew and loved the truth again embrace it fully and without reserve. Pray that all who have left the bride return with new hope and passion and cleared vision.

9th August 2007

My children, love one another, forgive one another and let the mercy and compassion you display in imitation of my adored son, Jesus become evident to all whom you meet. Open your hearts to the love of God and be filled with grace so that all pain, all grief, all burdens may be washed away and replaced with hope and love and humble compassion. Many times I have passed the message to you, from our Father, to be merciful and loving and selfless. This day the message is no different to the last time I gave it for little has changed in the hearts of my children but the need is much greater. Those who act from mercy shall find mercy and those who forgive will find forgiveness. Those who pray will find wisdom and those with hope everlasting in their heart will see the abundant fruit of that hope. Reach out to those who have fallen or faltered or have not yet seen and do so with purity and simplicity. Show them the benefit of living a life which is pleasing to Our Eternal Father, God. Help guide them to return to Him through the acceptance of His commands and of their faults. Help them remove pride and indifference from their consciousness and become open to the Holy Spirit to replenish them with courage and piety and discernment. Remember that our Father is anxious to give His gifts to us, more so than we are ready to receive them. Those gifts save you from your slavery to your self and set you free from the bondage of sin. They allow you to grow in faith and perceive when sin approaches and they give you the fortitude to fight that sin. When you accept the truth of the Christ, those gifts empower you to proclaim His truth and live as He did, in service and humble obedience. Read and learn the truth of your faith and of the power of God's gifts. Read 1 Corinthians Chapter 1

My children pray and prepare for the hour of justice will soon be upon you. Many will say when will it happen? I tell you that the time is nowhere near as important as your preparation for the event. A moment in the eyes of our eternal Father may seem as a thousand years to you but beware and take heed for He has promised the time and he must honour His promise. There are signs and moments which lead you to ponder and I ask you to see and hear the signs not as a beginning of the end but as a signal which awakens you to preparation. There will be times of great upheaval of the earth and the waters and the air. Many strange and wonderful signs will appear in the sky and you will say is it now? Be patient and prayerful for the time will come soon enough. You will witness the time when the frailty of mans' endeavour is shown and his endeavour will crumble and become as dust in the air. Enemies will become as friends only to turn upon you when you have given your trust and friendship. Governments will seek to rule but not to be just and fair to all as they are called to be. They will take that which was never theirs and cause heartache and great loss through their erroneous judgements and laws. They will bring the sin of satan into the streets and homes of all and any who oppose will be judged by them as being prejudiced and unfit. The laws which try to overrule the laws of God must be opposed and defeated. Do not let complacency and compromise win the beginning of your journey of salvation and to truly proclaim His mercy and truth you must first receive that mercy. Strip away the layers of worldliness and self by admitting the errors of your life and asking to be forgiven, strengthened and enlightened. Strength comes through prayer and obedience to Almighty God's commandments and knowledge will be given to those who willingly learn from the Scriptures and allow the Holy Spirit to move through them. Those who become disciples of the Christ are not perfect people but they strive to become holy and pure in thought and action. As an active and committed disciple, the salvation of all is the goal you will desire to attain, and each journey will be different. In the quietness of your prayers, contemplate the ways in which you can best be a functioning part of the whole body of redemptive love. Let your words be Christ's words, your actions be Christ's actions and your love be Christ's love. Become a servant to compassion and truth and never seek acclaim or reward for that which you give through holy love.

22nd August 2007

When you become a disciple of my adored son, Jesus, then you will become a witness to absolute truth and love. The words and actions are those of our Eternal father, God, and all which is of God is truth. He allows me to give His words to you to comfort, guide and warn you. I ask you to listen to and see the signs which He gives to all so that they may find salvation through preparation. Those who seek to have Jesus live within them must submit to God's will through a simple and willing acceptance of that will. Christ's pure love and mercy can only grow within the soul that is prepared to receive Him. Cleanse your soul often through the admission of your sin and the reparation of the offences you have performed. With a cleansed soul you are ready to receive the graces which come to those who have faith and you are prepared to receive The Christ as he comes to you in the Eucharist. Through his great mercy he has made it possible for all of his brothers and sisters to live within Him as He lives within you. Let your words and actions be His and His light will shine on to all who come to you. The trials which the faithful endure are but a moment of testing which allows you to show your faith and trust in God's will. You have to be prayer filled at this time of great turmoil and temptation. Reject the illusions and falsehoods which satan has given to those who follow the ways of the world. Remember that the world has nothing which is permanent except the word of God. The way in which you choose to live is a matter which God can not interfere with but allow yourself to live with truth rather than restrain you because you will see yourself as you truly are when you seek to be cleansed. You deny God's presence and your life becomes one of struggle and turmoil because of your rejection of His will. Sickness abounds within you and your sins are so great and numerous that you seem as if all is balanced against you and weighs you down. You also have an innate goodness within all of you and that goodness is loved by God and it leads you to find redemption. Pray and talk with God so that He may again become part of your conscious self. Allow your fears to lessen a little so you may have the courage to approach him and ask for forgiveness. You fear His judgement which must come to you some day and it is better to live your life cleansed of your offences than to cower and hope that His judgement will pass you by. Your journey requires you to strip away the layers of self delusion and deceit so that your soul may be bared to God and made new again. The pain of cleansing is minor when compared to the pain of eternal separation from your loving Father. The way in which you see your self is not the way you are truly seen by God for He knows you and your weakness and yet He still sees the love which He created in side of you. He sees the evil and speaks to the goodness which you can never hide completely. Nurture the good within you and help your brothers and sisters to find their goodness. Read and understand the Gospels and the old books and realise that always God's children have feared finding themselves. The time has come to remove that fear and to embrace the reality of your imperfections and build your future with God through your faith and not your faults. Use the faults as a guide that reminds you of your frailty but never return to the darkness which they hold. Read Exodus 20 verses 18 – 22 and come to understand that strength is contained in all people who will trust and obey.

21st August 2007

Let every action and every word in your life be given as God would have them be. I give to you the words which our Eternal Father gives to His children and I ask that you always proclaim His words. Be gentle and persistent with those who are led to you but be certain that you proclaim His words and directions. It is easy to become involved with concerns and the weight of your burdens can seem as though they may crush you but I urge you to use these tests to strengthen your faith and find the solutions which God has given. Pride and ego and selfishness have no place in the life of those who have accepted my adored son, Jesus. The acceptance of His truth is against God's revealed truth. The sin of omission is great at this time because many choose to be a part of the misled flock rather than bear witness to the truth. My adored son, Jesus, died to put your sin to death. He rose to show you the new life which you can have in the Holy Spirit and through acceptance of His mercy and His forgiveness. Do not waste His great sacrifice through your wanton behaviour and acceptance of abominations and atrocities many of which are said to be in His name or carried out by those who profess to love God. If you love God and The Christ then your love is for all of His children, living, dead and unborn. Your neighbours are your brothers not your competitors and I ask you to act in humility, selflessness and peace always.

11th August 2007

I again ask you to spend time in prayer with our Eternal Father and truly listen to the guidance which He gives to you at those times. Discern that which you hear lest you fall prey to the subtle deceptions of satan who will always tell you that which, he knows, you want to hear. His deceptions are always present and waiting for the unwary and for those who have weakened in some way. He uses your frustrations and tiredness to pierce your mind with his illusions so pray for strength and resilience so that you may withstand his temptations. Do not be tempted to reject or deny God or my adored son, Jesus, because you can not see them or sense them. In the loneliest and lowliest of your times they are nearest to you, guarding and watching over your soul. If you reject them and their love you reject all which they have to give and have given. You reject love and therefore are not capable of showing mercy or love, even unto yourself. That rejection is the cause of misery and trials between brothers and sisters. Without acceptance of forgiveness you can not understand and correct your faults and in consequence you can not see and resist sin and temptation. You become an instrument of satan, slowly but most assuredly, when you reject God in your life. Your sufferings abound and you loose all sense of direction and hope and wellbeing when your soul is starved of the graces which come to those who remain faithful and obedient. The faithful have trials and hardship, suffering and illness but they also have hope. Return to the love of God and the graces which He gives by coming to Him with contrition and in the fervent desire for absolution.

12th August 2007

My children, so many of you allow your minds to be misled and bewildered by the choices which are shown to you. You are tormented with cries from every corner which urge you to do this rather than another or to acquire this rather than something else. You are constantly told that the need to possess is great and should be followed at any cost. Your mind is turned to compromise by unceasing pressures to convert to a way which you truly know to be wrong. Your faith base is manipulated and changed so that the bride becomes almost unrecognisable as the one which was formed by my adored son, Jesus. Apostasy is accepted and those false teaching lead many into grave error. I tell you again that there is no salvation, no redemption with out your complete acceptance of The Christ and His truth. No one shall pass to The Father except through His Son. The bride is His one, true family and all who seek to deny or reject it are in error. I can not be gentle with you , my dear children, when I tell you this because my heart cries for those who abominate the truth and still believe in their minds that they are doing God's will and are not at fault. The messages I am allowed to give to you speak of justice and love, trust and hope , humility and obedience. They speak of prayer and preparation and above all they speak of forgiveness and mercy and redemption. Those who make mistakes can rectify those faults by simply returning to God's ear and asking for forgiveness and guidance. The way to be forgiven has always been available to all of our eternal Father's children. Do not fear to return because of pride and arrogance for all need to be humbled sometime in order to see that which they really are. You are loved beyond all measure by God and he showed His love in the gift of His only begotten Son. The Son gave you the truth and set His bride in place through the commission of His Apostles and the sending of The Holy Spirit so that all may hear of the truth and partake of salvation and birth to eternal glory. The days grow shorter and the darkness of night and the shadows grow darker. One light remains to guide you to true joy and peace. It is the bright light of mercy and compassion and love but you must open your eyes willingly in order to see it and be guided to safety. Read and learn what has been written and promised by The Christ and give praise and thanksgiving for that knowledge in every moment of your day. Read The Gospel of Luke chapter 12 verses 54 – 59.

13th August 2007

Trust and have hope in the mercy and forgiveness which awaits you. Our Eternal Father knows each of His children and He sees their needs and fears and sorrows. He sees their triumphs, actions and sins and he loves all without preference. Many try to hide from Him

Pray always for those who persecute you and do not dwell on the bitterness and pride of a few. Trust and place all before our Heavenly Father through my adored son, Jesus. Through faith and trust you will be showered in the merciful love which flows from the Holy Trinity. Be ordered and conscientious in your prayers and always discern everything you feel you are called to undertake in the service of God. I walk beside you on every step of your journey and I will give you my protection and guidance to all who ask of it. When you speak that which you say must be the truth and must not be altered because of fear of retribution or ridicule. Many disciples have been mocked as fools and have been shown to be saints. Sainthood comes not just through the piety which you have but through the example you are of Christ to everyone who comes to you. Reach out in love to those around you and pray for the inspiration you need to receive from the Holy Spirit. Walk your journey in Christ's footsteps and image but remember to smile as He did, show compassion as He did, laugh and cry as He did, and know that He still lives within all who accept Him. Gain understanding through your reading of Holy Scripture and you will grow ever closer to Him and to imitation of the service which He gave to His Heavenly Father for the conversion and redemption of all of god's children. Keep your mind clear through a sincere examination of your conscience and the purgation of any sin which you may harbour. Courage is given to those who have faith and hope in their hearts and those graces with engender trust and your trust will allow you to never feel alone on your journey. Jesus, your brother and I, your mother, are always beside you and will help you in any way if you will just turn to us and ask. Through your prayers and faith the path will be less troubled and peace will prevail and that peace will allow calm to reign in your heart and help your selfless work of holy love to continue. Continue, my children, to pray, pray, pray and let your souls song be All for Jesus, All for Jesus, and All for Jesus. Read 1 Peter 3:9 - 18

I ask you, my children, to again forgo the worldliness which distracts you from fully living a life which is immersed in God's love. Come before Him in simplicity and with humility in your heart and ask for the divine mercy and forgiveness which comes to all from my adored son, Jesus. You see the truth which is set before you but still so many do not embrace the redemption which is offered. Your fear holds you back from acceptance and that fear is fuelled by your guilt and pride. You want to believe and trust but your imperfections your resolve when you receive Christ fully and willingly. Renew your strength through the frequent reception of His Precious body and always receive Him with a clear and clean soul. Do not cause Him further pain and offence by refusing to live as He did and still call your self His disciples. Take time to rid the imperfections which bind you to the wickedness of earthly possessions and pleasures and with Gods merciful help you will remove those stains and clear your vision for the glory of God and benefit of all. Read Psalm 138 and be certain always of that for which you pray.

Remain firm in your commitment to be disciples who are dedicated to promoting the redemptive mercy and forgiveness of my Adored Son, Jesus. Let His love and truth inspire your selfless service of words and actions and also the love which you show to those whom you meet. Be persistent and patient and understanding and accept that those who come back to the Eternal Father must do so through their own free will. Guide them gently and with humble compassion and love always in your heart. Love will purge pain and distrust and will lead more to salvation than fear or shock because you act in accordance with God's will when you act with love. Pray for the wisdom from the Holy Spirit to come to all who accept the Christ into their life and pray that all use the knowledge they gain to further the will of Almighty God. Trust in His will and providence and show your trust through the way in which you live your life. Listen and live the words I am allowed to pass to you and always be aware that those you reach out to have needs and desires which you may never fully comprehend. Spend quiet time in contemplation and prayer each day and remove the distractions which seem to keep you from true conversation with our Eternal Father. Take time to be with The Christ at the Tabernacle where He patiently waits for you to come and speak with Him. Clear your mind of distraction and your soul of stains and do all that you do with praise for God upon your lips. Be obedient to His commands and suffer the trials which come your way and know that God uses those pains for the salvation of many of your brothers and sisters. Pray for those who persecute you and the entire faithful remnant for your prayers and example will help bring many of them back to the lighted path of redemption. God's mercy is shown to those who joyfully allow themselves to be persecuted for His sake and the enlightenment of others.

I ask you again have courage to step forward armed with faith alone.

but there is not any place where you are not revealed to Him. It truth it is you, my children, who hide God from yourself. You reject and deny Him and place your self ahead of His love and plan. You willingly allow yourself to be distracted and thus place impediments across your path to service and to salvation. Your freewill is your great gift from God but you must learn to use it to help to achieve His will for your life. Come closer to our Eternal Father, rather than seeking to avoid Him, by becoming immersed in the light of the truth of our adored son, Jesus. He will show you the way to return to the path and with the gifts given by the Holy Spirit you will again rest in the arms of our loving creator. All can come about if you will truly, sincerely and humbly believe in His mercy. Let Him move within your heart and enlighten you to the errors and faults which you have so that you may be purged of them and become a vessel of His compassion and purity. Return to His revealed truth and rules for peaceful and prayerful life. Remove the deceptions that satan has placed before your eyes and which you have taken into your hearts. Be aware that satan and evil spirits do exist as does the pit of hell. No amount of false teaching and misguided hope can remove those realities. There is no need of fear for faith and hope will give you courage to reject evil and to embrace goodness. My children stop hiding God in your lives and come to Him seeking mercy, forgiveness and understanding. Clean your soul, willingly and joyfully, through confession of your sin and reparation for that offence. Create a new life and find peace within that life when you cease trying to run from Our Father and the consequences of your actions.

My adored son, Jesus, redeemed all of His brothers and sisters by His sacrifice on Calvary and through His actions he reconciled all with our Eternal Father. His service to God and to all showed the way to remove the distance which had been placed between The Father and His children by the wilful acceptance of sin. Sin still exists and always will while you, my children, refuse to recognise the damage it causes and until you willingly reject it and him who tempts you. The chasm between you and God is still there when you are in a state of sin but the way to rebuild the bridge is also available because of the mercy and forgiveness of The Christ. Do not be burdened by worldly considerations and possessions which carry no importance in the spiritual realm. Concentrate on rebuilding your soul while the grace of time exists. Do not defer until tomorrow that which must be done today for you do not know when our Father will call your name. Many live in the belief that they will have time to repent and I say to them that if they truly believe in their need to repent then do so now and do not wait. Be aware that the shadows of the world lengthen and soon the world will be called to judgement. All will happen in God's time but that time draws closer every second of the day. Keep watch during the night lest you fall asleep and allow the enemy to pass by. Always be aware of the traps that are laid for you and which will be triggered by your weaknesses. Forgo the pride which blinds you to the ability to care selflessly for others and know that the truth of faith is found in your acceptance of trials and your willingness to receive more rather than less. Do not let trivial matters blind you to your service in the name of Holy love. Do not let the agendas and programs of others allow you to be diverted from the course you know you must walk. Be humble and obedient always and know that I am by your side to constantly guide you and that Jesus walk with you also at all times. Call out His Holy name and He turns to you wherever you may be. His presence is assured and your heartfelt, sincere prayers will be heard. Give of your time and your life with courage borne of prayer and peace borne of hope and understanding. Follow the example of selfless love of my dear consecrated son, Maximillian, who knew that the protection and love within my Immaculate Heart would always help shield His soul and lead Him to salvation through The Christ and by the Holy Spirit.

My adored son, Jesus, knows all who know Him and live their life in service to the truth of His mercy and love. Maintain your faith and never let the distractions which surround you to allow you to falter and fall. Pray that your brothers and sisters are able to open their hearts to also receive the redeeming love which is offered to all. I thank all my children who have remained faithful to God's commands and who promote His truth to those they meet through their words and prayers and example. Your prayers are heard and I place your petitions before our eternal father with humility and love. Many of my children fail to accept the presence and influence of God in their life and I ask them to consider how their life would be with out the providence and gifts which have been given to them and to all. Accept the good and bad which come to you and give thanks for all. Do not let trials and hardships taint the love you have for God but let the suffering be offered to Him as an example of your faithfulness. Many are tested and they fail the tests because their faith is weak and their hope has disappeared. Be firm in your faith by reading Holy Scripture, confessing your sin and receiving The Christ often. Your soul can not be nourished if you will not place spiritual food before it to feast upon. Your faithfulness will be rewarded by the fruits which that faith will bring. Persist in your service and know that the salvation of many can come about through your simple moments of compassion and selfless love. Go forward with confidence and humility foremost in your heart and the truth of Jesus upon your lips. Give to Him even greater love and devotion than you shown to me on this anniversary of the day you celebrate my son taking me to be with Him in eternity. All must pass away for all life has a finite time which is dictated by God. The things which you make are likewise going to pass away eventually. The soul is eternal and it is the precious possession which you must protect and nourish and preserve.

My children I ask that you be always willing to proclaim the truth about the forgiveness and love of our Eternal Father as shown through the words and actions of my adored son, Jesus. Call your brothers and sisters to open their eyes to His providence and His graces which He wants to give to all of His children. Be persevering through all of the service which you give to His will and His love will be seen by many. Conversion of heart and cleansing of souls are the desire which you must hold foremost in your minds. Let your passion for the truth be fuelled by your need to acquire more knowledge and understanding through the reading and learning of Holy Scripture. Clear your soul of sin and your mind will be prepared to receive the wisdom which is available for all who sincerely wish to receive it. Be prayerful and obedient to the commands of Almighty God and accept all which comes to you as part of His will. If you are not completely accepting then you create a barrier by which you try to separate and hide from God. You can not hide Him away and deny His constant presence for to do so causes unrest in your existence and robs your peace. You can not guide if your do not have direction in your life just as surely as you can not live without nourishment. The mind which lacks knowledge dims and wastes away and the heart without love can not give the same. Those without hope live in fear and those who lack charity show only apathy. Open your self to all which will make you a complete, purposeful child of God. Live your life fully in the example of The Christ so that others may also live and find eternal joy. Prepare your self to be worthy disciple of holy love through your prayers, contemplation and humble gratitude for the goodness which surround you. You are given the gifts of the Holy Spirit to strengthen
